

ASK PRESIDENT'S AID IN DEBT PARLEY

BOB PLEDGES SELF TO PLANS OF HIS FATHER

Robert LaFollette, Jr., Announces Platform for Primary Nomination

FAVORS CONSERVATION

Says Association With Father Gives Him Intimate Knowledge of Work

Madison—Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., progressive candidate for nomination
at the Republican primary for the expired term of the late Senator La-Follette Monday announced his platform and pledged himself to continue his father's policies.

Mr. LaFollette said in his formal statement that he did not ask support because he was Senator LaFollette's son, but at the same time the relationship "does not disqualify me."
He asserted he was "free from any deals of political entanglements."

The statement follows in part:
"I am a progressive candidate for the Republican nomination of United States senator to fill the unexpired term at the Republican primary.

"I am a candidate on the platform endorsed by the voters of Wisconsin three years ago when Robert M. La-Follette was elected to his fourth term in the United States senate.

"I do not ask the support of the people of Wisconsin because I am Robert M. LaFollette's son. I am well aware that this relationship in itself does not entitle my candidacy to consideration. At the same time the relationship does not disqualify me."

"I believe long association with my father in the past in his public service gives me an intimate knowledge of his work in the past and his plans for the future.

If elected I shall support Senator Norris in his fight to keep the power trust from grabbing Muscle Shoals and other valuable power resources of the government.

Congress should act for relief of agriculture before considering reduction of super-taxes and other special privilege measures.

"I would continue the fight for the La Follette resolution instructing the interstate commerce commission to reduce freight rates on agriculture products and the things that farmers have to buy to practically pre-war levels.

If elected to the senate, I shall continue to fight for the rights of American labor.

Further substantial reductions in federal taxes must come through the curtailment of the 80 per cent of government revenues now expended for past and future wars.

"Reduction thus obtained should be used to lighten the tax burden on all taxpayers in proportion to their ability to pay."

"Tax reduction should first benefit those least able to pay. People with incomes of less than $3,000 constitute 67 per cent of all persons making returns.

"The remaining special war taxes, rightly called 'nuisance taxes' should be repealed; thus ending an unfair burden on legitimate business and the consuming public.

"In general I am opposed to the Mellon plan of taxation or any other plan which proposes to relieve the rich and shift the burden of taxation to the poor.

I favor a thorough investigation of the present activities of the federal tax commission, and strengthening of the law which created it so it shall serve legitimate business and the consumers, and not foster monopolies.

"I favor constitutional amendments for direct nomination and election by the people of president and vice president.

"Congress has a constitutional right to an authoritative voice in foreign affairs. I favor its exercising that right: (1) promote friendly relations with all countries, especially Mexico and the Central and South American republics. (2) Promote firm treaty agreements with all nations to, outlaw, abolish conscription and provide for referendum on questions of peace and war. (3) to defeat all forms of imperialism. I am opposed to the use of armed forces of the United States to aid in the exploitation of weaker nations as has too often happened in our relations with Haiti, San Domingo, Nicaragua and elsewhere.

"I am opposed to the proposed world court because it is a back door entrance to the League of Nations which the people have twice refused to join."

GIVES MILLION

A gift of $250,000, the first installment of one million dollars which will be given to worthy Wisconsin institutions, has been sent to the general hospital by A. E. McNichol, wealthy realtor. Gifts to other institutions will be sent them immediately.

HEAR BOUNDARY DISPUTE AGAIN; MIGHT BE FINAL

Old Maps and Senate Documents May Settle War Between Wisconsin and Michigan

By Associated Press
Superior—What is expected will be the final hearing in the Wisconsin-Michigan boundary dispute over territory in the vicinity of Hurley will take place here Monday afternoon before Margaret M. Hoyt, special commissioner appointed by the United States Supreme court. Robert
M. Reiser, special counsel for Wisconsin, M. P. Sawyer and Carl B.
Mosier, representing Michigan, will go over evidence already entered at a hearing at Hurley two weeks ago and will conclude their evidence with several exhibits, it is said.

Mr. Mosier is assistant attorney general of Michigan and Mr. Sawyer is special counsel representing that state. Several old maps, old senate documents from the 26th congress admitting Michigan to the Union and other aged documents will form a part of the exhibit of today.

According to Miss Hoyt, it is hoped to end the taking of testimony within three or four days when all of the evidence will be sent to the United States Supreme court. She stated there was a remote possibility of another hearing being held at Lansing, Mich., within a few weeks.

ACCIDENTS KILL 12 IN MIDDLEWEST; 6 INJURED

By Associated Press
Chicago—A dozen persons met death
in automobile, bathing and other accidents over the weekend in the middlewest.

drowning occurred at Fox Lake near Waukegan, Ill., when a man fell out struck and killed by a train at Rockford, Ill. An unidentified man met

Wis., and three youths plunged to their deaths in an abandoned coal mine near Pleasantville, Iowa.

ALIBI FAILS TO SAVE MAN FROM SENTENCE

By Associated Press
Chicago—Henry Buss, 18, who gave the name of his home town as Glenhurst, Wis., told a story of being forced by two "bad men," armed with revolvers, to drive them 250 miles into Wisconsin when tried in municipal court on a charge of stealing an automobile. He was fined $25 and sentenced to the house of correction for 60 days as a result of his disappearance Aug. 7 with a taxicab.
Buss said he took advantage of the opportunity afforded by being compelled to drive into Wisconsin and saw his relatives a visit.

HOUSE TO ACT ON TAX BILL BEFORE RECESS

Action Is Promised President
by Representative Tilson, Floor Leader

By Associated Press
Plymouth, Vt.—Final action on a tax reduction bill by the house before the Christmas recess or soon hereafter was promised President Coolidge Monday by Representative Tilson of Connecticut, who will be the Republican floor leader in the next session.

Taking advantage of the visit here
of Secretary Mellon and Senator Smoot, who is chairman of the finance committee on the Belgian debt problem, the president went over the tax reduction program with the representatives of the house, senate and treasury.

Secretary Mellon presented tentative estimates, showing the effect on the treasury of certain reductions, and later Mr. Tilson predicted a cut in the surplus to a minimum of 20 per cent or even 15 per cent on the basis of the treasury figures.

WINDSTORM DAMAGES CITY IN MINNESOTA

By Associated Press
Detroit, Minn.—A terrific wind-storm which descended upon this city and vicinity early Sunday night, wrecked several homes and other buildings, tore down trees and leveled power lights. As far as known nearly there was no casualties. No estimate of the damage was available.

Six miles west of Detroit, a church was demolished by the wind and further on a terrific storm damaged buildings and trees.

"At Detroit, the storm, which struck about 6 o'clock seemed to hit the north shore line of Detroit the hardest. The docks and boat houses of the Detroit Boat livery were destroyed.

Large trees along the lake shore drive were uprooted and the city park is strewn with broken trees.

Expect Mellon, Coolidge Will Discuss Tax Program As Well As Belgian Debt

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1925 By Post Pub. Co.
Plymouth, Vt.—While Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Senator Smoot are coming to talk to President Coolidge primarily about the Belgian debt negotiations their visit will afford an opportunity to talk over the whole tax revision program of the administration.

The president has been exchanging ideas with Secretary Mellon for some time concerning the recommendations that should be made at the next session of congress but he has had no opportunity to discuss things in person with the secretary since the end of the fiscal year.

Mr. Mellon now has in his possession detailed figures on tax receipts and he has a better idea of what the surplus will be for the coming year than anybody else.

The mistakes that were made, however, last time are not going to be repeated. The treasury announced its plan in October and promptly the same was named the Mellon Plan and it ran the gamut of much opposition in the ground that measures of this kind should really be framed in the House of Representatives. Representative Green of Iowa, Republican, chairman of ways and means committee, will be the real leader in the house of the administration forces on tax revision this year and in the senate Mr. Smoot will be in command. The law will probably be known as the Green-Smoot bill and while the general principles will be proclaimed by President Coolidge through the secretary of the treasury in his annual report to Congress, in December the chances are Mr. Green will have evolved what will be the administration plan long before congress convenes in December.

An early meeting of the ways and means committee in the autumn is scheduled and it is for that reason the conference here between the president and the Secretary of the Treasury and Senator Smoot may be called preliminary to consultations that will be held immediately on Mr. Coolidge's return to the White House next month.

The essentials however will have to be decided by the president and they are indirectly related to debt negotiations. If, for example, there is a fair prospect of payment being made by foreign governments sometime in the next five years it may be considered advisable not to apply so much of the forthcoming surplus to the retirement of the public debt but to apply most of it to a reduction in taxes for the year 1925 and to revise the rate so as not to require the taxpayer to bear as much of the burden in the next four or five years.

There are signs that the administration would like to put through a tax program next session which will hold good for at least two years more so that the voter at the congressional elections not only will be urged to receive the administration for benefits already received in tax reduction but to cast his vote for the congress which has promised by law greater tax reduction. The Democrats were the last to use this plan when they revised the taxes for two years preceding the 1920
election but at that time the Republicans were as anxious as were the Democrats to avoid tinkering with the tax law in the presidential year.

There is every reason to believe the next law will be the one on which the whole Coolidge administration and the Republican party will base its claim to support in the congressional elections next year and the conference here may be said to be the first step in that program.

MANY PRESENT AT KIWANIS MEETING

Attendance Record at State Convention at Janesville Is Broken

By Associated Press
Janesville—When Ira Parker of Oshkosh, governor of the Wisconsin and upper Michigan district of Kiwanis called the annual convention to order in the High school auditorium Monday morning, he faced the largest attendance of delegates representing the 40 clubs and 800 members of the district in the seven years of its existence.

The morning was given up to oratory and welcoming speeches with reports of committees and officers. In the afternoon came the presentation of the prize—a large silver loving cup
—to the Monroe club as winner of the attendance contest.

Ladies were entertained at the Colonial club with a luncheon musicale and bridge. Close to 200 visiting ladies were entertained.

Racine came into the field last night
as a strong bid for the next convention and the contest over the selection of a governor is warm. Ira Parker is a candidate for reelection and others in the field are George Wilkinson, Monroe; C. H. Schweizer, La-Crosse; Bert Zinn, Milwaukee and A.
E. Davis of Marinette.

The day's events culminate tonight
in the annual banquet in honor of the governor when international trustees,
Douglas J. Scott of Winnipeg will speak.

Flags and bunting are everywhere
in the city in honor of the convention.

Error In 2 Hebrew Words Causes Religious Trouble

Milwaukee—Much of the misunderstanding that has arisen in this world over the subjects of religion and evolution was due to a misinterpretation of two Hebrew words of related meaning concerning the creation as told in Genesis I of the Bible. Professor David L. Cooper of Louisville Episcopal theological seminary, Nashville, Tenn., declared before the fundamental conference here Sunday.
The day's events culminate tonight
in the annual banquet in honor of the
Douglas J. Scott of Winnipeg will speak.

BRUCE PUT IN SENATE RACE BY DEMOCRATS

Receives Unanimous Nomination of Party at Convention at Milwaukee

Milwaukee—William George Bruce,
president of the Milwaukee Harbor commission, president of the Great Lakes Harbors association, and a leader in political and civic activities, was nominated by the Democratic conference Saturday to be its candidate for United States senator.

Mr. Bruce was chosen on the first ballot. He received 59 of the 95 votes cast, and his nomination was made unanimous.

Others who received votes were:
Calvin Stewart, Kenosha, 12; A. J.
Schmitz, Milwaukee, 11; Vilas Whitney, Racine, 4; Harry Bolens, Port Washington, 1; Col. William Mitchell, Milwaukee, 1; Judge Martin Luck, Beaver Dam, 2; William Ryan, Madison, 2; John Callahan, Milwaukee, 3.
Though these complimentary ballots were widely scattered, they did not prevent Mr. Bruce receiving a majority without a second ballot.

SUGGEST TWO CANDIDATES

To center Democratic interest in the primary on Democratic candidates, some delegates insisted that the conference select two candidates.

"I do not object to any other candidate contesting in this primary, but I believe I should have the support of this conference," Mr. Bruce said.

"Whether I win or lose, it is my wish that we emerge from this campaign a stronger organization and party than before the campaign started."

Mr. Bruce said he had consulted with no one to promote his candidacy, but that in response to the demand of the conference he was ready to make the race.

WETS MAY RUN MAN

Chairman Callahan said the state central committee would circulate the nomination papers of any other candidate who desired to enter the race.
Angered by the refusal of the conference to adopt a beer and wine plank, wets were considering the advisability of running a second candidate on the issue.

The suggestion that Col. Mitchell be chosen proved attractive but efforts throughout the day to establish communication with him proved unavailing. When Col. Mitchell came and with it the call for nominations the delegates
who had been awaiting word from Col.
Mitchell were unable to tell the conference whether he would accept the nomination were it tendered him. The Mitchell people fell in line for Bruce.

DAYLIGHT ROBBERS ARE BEING SOUGHT IN STATE

Milwaukee—Two daylight robbers are being sought by the police following the holding up of a restaurant Sunday afternoon when two armed men entered, beat some of the guests and escaped with $300.

When the pair entered the place,
one stationed himself at the front door and the other at the rear. At a signal both drew pistols and threatening the persons in the place went through the cash register and then took money from the guests.

William C. Kelly, eating at a table, did not comply with the request to put up his hands, and was knocked down and $7 taken from him. Steve Lukatos, an employee, attempted to fight the building but was overtaken by one of the robbers, beaten and kicked, and a purse containing $150
was taken from him.

TYPHOON HITS JAPAN, FLOODS MANY HOUSES

Osaka, Japan—A typhoon struck Osaka, Kyoto, Kobe, and vicinity Monday. The amount of the damage is yet to be estimated.
Several thousand houses were flooded in Osaka.

The typhoon caused extensive interruption in telephone and telegraph service, but the damage to railroads and shipping was slight.

FRENCH REPORT THAT RIFFIANS ARE RALLYING

Fez French Morocco—A French communique dealing with the operations against the Riffian rebels says that in the region north of Ouezzan, the enemy, which was scattered after the operations in Djebel Sarsar, is reported to be partially rallying around the Calid Haddou-Er Rim.
There is little activity beyond routine operations along the front.

the Democratic party as candidate for United States senate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Robert M. LaFollette. The nomination was made at a convention of the party held at Milwaukee Saturday.

MOTHER, CHILD HURT WHEN TWO CARS COLLIDE

Bear Creek Man's Car Wrecked as He Is Driving Home
After Purchase

A small sedan was damaged beyond repair Saturday night, the very night it was purchased, and two of the occupants were injured when the car was struck by another automobile at Reindl's corners, the junction of state highways 26 and 76 at Greenville. The other car, also was wrecked and two of the occupants were injured.

Those most seriously injured are Mrs. Harry Link, Bear Creek, who is suffering with a minor fracture of the skull and lacerations, and her nine-months old baby, Viola, who also has several gashes.

The sedan was being driven by Mr.
Link accompanied by his wife and three children on their return home from Appleton shortly after 11 o'clock Saturday night. They had just purchased the car at this city at 6 o'clock. The car driven by Francis Schwartz, Hortonville, accompanied by Douglas Collar and Victor Behrent, also of Hortonville, was coming from the opposite direction and crashed into the side of the sedan, twisting both cars around and tipping the Ford over on its side.

Link's car was so badly damaged
that the baby went through the floor and was badly cut, but the two children in the rear seat were not injured. When the Hortonville men were removed from their wrecked car the driver was found covered with blood and Behrent was temporarily stunned. The latter also suffered gashes on the head.

MINT SELLING MACHINE NOT GAMBLING DEVICE

By Associated Press
Madison—A mint selling machine in which the customer places a nickel and receives a package of mints and by moving character on the machine has his fortune told, is not a gambling device and is lawful, J. E. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general, Monday informed George S. Geffs, district attorney of Rock county.

The giving of a card with the sale of a coupon book by an oil company which entitles the purchaser to receive a thousand dollar travel accident insurance policy is violation of the trading stamp law, J. C. Emery, dist-ric and food commissioner, was advised.

Verbal misrepresentation is not an advertisement under the new fraudulent advertising law, C. B. Ballard, state treasury agent, was informed. Neither does the selling of a grade of merchandise of less value than was ordered and paid for by the customer come under the law, the opinion stated.

LOCUST VALLEY MOURNS DEATH OF MRS. MORGAN

Locust Valley, N. Y.—This little town was in mourning Monday as many prominent persons gathered for the funeral of Mrs. J. P. Morgan, wife of the financier, who died Friday after a long illness from sleeping sickness. Less than 200 persons, all relatives of Mrs. Morgan, were to attend the funeral. The services were to be private.

The simple funeral rituals of the Episcopal church will be read.

MELLON, SMOOT CALL ON CAL AT PLYMOUTH

Will Ascertain Executive's Position on Settlement of Belgian Debt

QUESTION IS PARAMOUNT

Terms of Settlement May Set Embarrassing Precedent for Future Agreements

By Associated Press
Plymouth, Vt.—President Coolidge expects an agreement to be reached, probably Tuesday on terms for refunding Belgium's debt to the United States.

An official statement issued after the president had discussed the situation, for two hours Monday with Secretary Mellon and Senator Smoot
of Utah said:

Final "agreement" was in sight
and that no deadlock had developed.
The following statement in the president's handwriting was given to newspapers at noon:

"Secretary Mellon and Senator Smoot have reported to the president the details of the Washington conference. The progress is satisfactory.
No deadlock has developed. The secretary and senator came to inform the president of the proposals before making the final agreement. The conference will reconvene at 3 P. M. Tuesday, when the expected final agreement will be reached, after which the final and complete statement will be given to the press by the American commission."

Plymouth, Vt.—In the isolation of his quaint hamlet President Coolidge grappled Monday with the vexing and far reaching Belgian debt problem.

With the American debt commission appealing to him for guidance out of the maze of negotiations with Belgium's mission, he sought information
as to the exact situation and the prospects for a refunding settlement from Secretary Mellon and Senator Smoot
of Utah.

The two debt commissioners were invited here for a conference at their request to ascertain in advance to a resumption of negotiations between the American and Belgian commissions in Washington Tuesday what the executive believed the terms of settlement should be.

The president thus far has given no indication as to what he thinks should be done. He realizes, however, the gravity of the situation and the desirability of reaching an agreement acceptable to the American public, and to congress.

The question in his mind is one that must be dealt with in a firm and far-sighted manner, particularly in view of the approaching refunding negotiations with France and Italy. Terms of settlement with Belgium, he believes, may set an embarrassing precedent for agreements with the two other debtor nations. Failure to reach an accord with the mission from Brussels, he realizes further, might seriously hamper the United States in working out satisfactory refunding arrangements with others.

In addition, the president in offering advice to the American commission, is confronted with the terms of the settlement with Great Britain,
terms which were approved by congress but which apparently the Belgium mission believes are too severe for it to undertake.

Nothing official has been learned here as to what terms Belgium is willing to accept for refunding the $480,000,000 debt. It is believed, however, that the main points at issue are the interest rates and the schedule of payments.

FIVE ALLEGED BOOTH SKULLS ON EXHIBITION

Twenty "Lincoln Assassina-tors" Have Died, Tomb Custodian Says

By Associated Press
Springfield, Ill.—Five alleged skulls of John Wilkes Booth, assassin of President Lincoln, are on exhibition in the United States, and twenty "Booths" have died, according to Herbert W. Fay, custodian of Lincoln's tomb here. Recurring reports that Booth lived 35 years after President Lincoln's death and later committed suicide, are characterized by Mr. Fay as wild.

"Those who wish to make money out of the hoax, or to create cheap notoriety, are the only ones to dispute the historical record of Booth's death in a barn at the Garrett farm," Mr. Fay asserted. "David E. George was only one of the 20 different men who have sought to create a furor by claiming to be Booth. Recently while lecturing on Booth's death at the tomb, one of my audience who gave his name as William H. Regan, said he embalmed the body of George. Asked whether he thought it was Booth and whether the dead man had any proof of his identity, Regan said he believed not. Nevertheless, George's body was embalmed and shown over the country in a commercial show scheme."

The version of Booth's death accepted by the custodian of the Lincoln's tomb is as follows:

"John Wilkes Booth, eluded his pursuers for 11 days. He was fed by Thomas A. Jones in the meantime in a grove along the Potomac. Lieutenant Baker of the Secret Service, who had often seen Booth, and his men were watching the fugitive. When he crossed the river he was suspected and chased to the Garrett farm."

"Baker and his men surrounded the house and after some parley they ascertained that Booth was there. Several times that he came out. Colonel Conger's men were surrounding the barn. They threatened to set fire to the barn and Herold emerged and surrendered. Booth refused, saying he would die in the last ditch. The barn was set afire."

"Boston Corbett, a sergeant, saw Booth through a crack and discovered orders, shot him. He was brought out by Conger's men and died in three hours. The body was brought to Washington and identified by various men who knew Booth. One, Dr. John F. May, identified the body by an ugly wound on the neck from an operation performed some time before. Against his physician's advice Booth insisted on acting, and reopened the wound, which he healed badly."

"Booth was buried under a federal prison and an accurate, detailed report made of position and condition as required. Later Edwin Booth, actor-brother of the slayer, obtained an order allowing him to see the body, hoping that a mistake had been made. He viewed the body and identified it as that of his brother. He also called in dentists who identified fillings in the teeth of the body, which made identification positive. Edwin Booth claimed the body and buried it in the family burying ground at Baltimore in an unmarked grave."

SEEK PRESIDENT'S AID IN BELGIAN DEBT PARLEY

who is chairman of the American debt commission, and Senator Smoot, was the modest sitting room of his father's home, in which he took the oath of office two years ago.

The president turned his attention to international affairs Monday after a week-end free from the cares of office. Sunday, before attending services in a little church across the road from his family home, he took a ride through the hills in a Ford touring car with three secret service men.

BELGIUM IS BITTER
Brussels—Anger and bitterness continued to make the comments of the Belgian press on the conference at Washington between the American war debt funding commission and the Belgian Mission.

The optimistic tone of semi-official statements made in Brussels before the conference, which encouraged the hope that favorable conditions would be made for the payment of Belgium's debt to the United States, is resented as having misled public opinion.

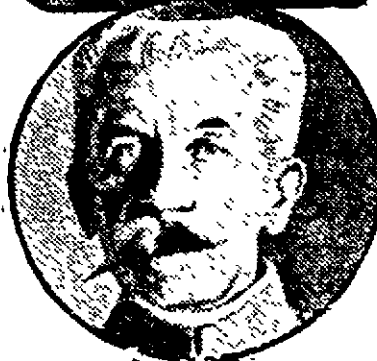

The Nation Belge, says that promises have been broken and that President Wilson's signature has become a scrap of paper.

The Vingtieme Siecle, commenting on the suggestion of French newspapers that Belgium and France form a united front for the solution of their war debt problems, says that everything must be tried to prevent Belgium being put under a financial guardianship as is threatened by the debt terms offered by the United States. The Midi says that American's attitude in regard to the debt question is cynical and that President Coolidge is in the hands of Wall Street.

While Mr. Mellon presented no definite scheme of tax reduction, Senator Smoot was of the same opinion as Mr. Wilson on the prospect of a heavy slash in the surtax rates which have a maximum of 40 per cent. now. He was not prepared to promise decisive action by the senate but the conference was hopeful if the house cleared the measure by the first of the year that a bill could be enacted into law before March 15, when the first payments of the new year are due.

Gustave Keller, Sr., returned Monday from the Fraternal Insurance convention at Duluth.

FLIGHT MEDICS LIMIT SPEED OF TURNING PLANES

Centrifugal Force Exerted on Body Effects Blood Pressure

Washington—Flight surgeons of the army air service believe that man has about reached the maximum flying speed at which he can suddenly change direction, owing to the centrifugal force exerted on the body and its effect on the blood. This speed is placed in the vicinity of 250 miles an hour. The limit of speed on a straightaway course, they say, can probably be placed much higher than is now mechanically possible, but experience will have to write the actual figure. The height limit, they add, is around 45,000 feet.

This contention regarding the maximum speed for turning, the flight surgeons point out, is predicated upon the experience of Lieutenant Alvin J. Williams, of the navy, at the Pulitzer races at St. Louis in October, 1923, who said he became practically unconscious at the turns of the triangular course, when he rounded at 243.67 miles an hour.

The flyer at the turn banks his craft at right angles, the centrifugal force acting at right angles to the new direction of travel and the blood being carried away from the head toward the legs, causes faintness and possibly unconsciousness. Blood circulation quickly adjusts itself, the flight surgeons say, and the direction of centrifugal force is rapidly changed, although at turns at very high speeds in airplanes, brain injury or rupture of a vital blood vessel might result.

Even when supplied with oxygen, the flight surgeons hold, an aviator could not survive beyond a height of 45,000 feet under ordinary circumstances, because the available oxygen pressure in the lungs would be too low to sustain life.

Between 23,000 and 25,000 is the "upper limit of consciousness" without oxygen, say the flight surgeons, and at higher altitudes oxygen is indispensable. Only if inclosed in a cabinet or suit in which the barometric pressure were kept at a degree compatible with life, would it be possible to ascend beyond the 45,000 limit, with suitable arrangement made for disposing of the surplus carbon dioxide.

The aviator experiences, among other things, as the result of high altitudes flights, sleepiness, uncontrolled emotion, including giggling, singing or laughter; muscular weakness, shortness of breath, impairment of vision and hearing. These are chiefly due, medical men explain, to a lack of oxygen in the blood.

There are 50-army flight surgeons, stationed at different flying fields, all on flying status. A flight medical school is maintained at Mitchell Field, N. Y., where courses are given selected medical officers picked for aviation duty. Aviation psychology forms a large share of their work, and they are acquainted with first-hand conditions of the men who go up in the air in ships.

The National Aeronautic association's records show that the present maximum altitude record is held by a French flier with 33,536 feet, and the speed record in a straightaway course is held by another French aviator at 275.48 miles an hour.

PASTIMES FROM AMERICA CATCH ITALIAN FAVOR

Movies, Radio and Crossword Puzzles Gain Popularity in Rome

By Associated Press
Rome—Serious students of the drama in the United States who occasionally complain of the moving picture, and point to the subordination of the stage to the silver screen as an indication of America's provinciality and uncouthness in matters of art, have no Italian brethren in arms to check the growth of popularity in Italy of all moving pictures, and especially those from the United States.

The fact is that, while there are few people here who consider the cinema a form of art, the moving picture is carrying everything before it and is rapidly becoming the favorite form of amusement of a large section of the population of the bigger Italian cities. Rome, for example, with a population under 1,000,000 and burdened by weighty conventions and traditions of dignified rejection of modern fads, already has about 30 movie houses, many of them quite large and all usually filled to the doors. And several weeks ago, the Superclinema, seating 3,500 persons, was added to the list. This house, like several other large ones, shows the best American, German, French and English moving pictures. It is said to be the largest in Europe and it certainly is one of the most beautiful, its builders having apparently been unbored by the convention of mere ornateness which prevails in many parts of the United States.

And the moving picture has brought with it advertising on an American scale to support the already strong tendency toward Americanization in many walks of Roman life. The billboards are plastered with huge posters, and the newspapers filled with display advertising to boost the films. The radio is coming slowly but surely into its own in popular favor. Jazz just manages to stumble along in the city of Pope, but the cross-word puzzle is having clear sailing.

MANY MARRIAGES FAIL IN ENGLAND

Cradles Remain Empty in British Isles Despite Frequent Weddings

London.—The blight of unemployment, which has kept more than a tenth of Britain's workfolk idle for five years, has not dulled the darts from Cupid's bow. Just as many marriages were performed last year for every thousand people in England and Wales as in 1923.

Although marriage is as popular as ever, peoples are bringing fewer and fewer babies into the world. Last year the birth-rate dropped down to 18.2 a thousand, the lowest level ever reached in the country, excepting the abnormal years in the closing half of the great war.

The provisional figure for last year's vital statistics, issued by the registrar-general, report 730,286 birth and 473,270 deaths. The births were almost 30,000 fewer than in 1923, and the deaths almost 30,000 more, but the natural increase in population, it will be seen by comparing deaths with births, amounted to roughly 250,000 people.

Emigration rids this over-crowded land of only a minor proportion of the increase that the population makes every year. There are more people in the country by over 2,000,000 than before the war, and doubtless there are almost as many at work, yet the army of unemployed remains around 1,250,000. This has led many to believe that unemployment has become chronic in Great Britain.

Both the death rate and infant mortality rate were slightly higher last year than in 1923.

A Good Time Was Had By All At Joint Newspaper Picnic At Shawano Lake, "Devil" Says

BY THE OFFICE BOY

The boss sez that Saturday afternoon, boy I want you to go out to the picnic with the Post-Crescent and Green Bay Press-gazette gang sundays afternoon and rite up a piece about the picnic to put in the paper Monday. gosh I said, boss I thought piknics was for fun and it no fun for me to rite up pieces besides you got fisher and bender and the rest of them guys why dont you mak them rite it up but the boss sez luk here yungster I dont want none of your lip and when the boss sez that I no when i'm licked so I sez allrite boss I'll rite it up but I aint no Herold Bell Wright nor no Longfellow either.

Well the gang was told by Carter whose the straw boss in the back shop to be already to start by half past eight but you know how it is they wasn't all there except them as was going to get free rides but most of 'em got started by nine and Frank Leminger who busses the carriers kids was in a hizzie up ahead. Chief Prim sent over a couple of motorcops and they showed 'em the way out of town because some of the guys never drove off of college-ave. the motorcops they gave the gang the highball at the ar- riller highways cause they was afraid if some of them hacks what the fellows was in ever stopped they couldn't get em started again. Eddie Stenard who runs the monotype machines when he isn't playing ball or minding the kid wasn't in the gang which was lucky or maybe they wouldn't have gotten started at all waiting for him.

Carter he's got a new bus and he started out about 8 o'clock sos he would be sure to be there in time for dinner and he just maid it he wouldn't give anything more'n his wright arm for his dinner so he stepped on it and he druv as fast as twenty miles per. somebody kidded Leminger that his bus couldn't go more as fifteen miles an hour but he showed him. his wife said he maid 18 miles going down the bonduel hill which is a good deal better as augie rehmer maid going up it. augie was in the middle of the parade and the guy behind gave him a shove and he clim up allrite. dave Bender had part of his picnic on the way up to the picknick grund which was at Judge Werner's cottage on Shawano lake. he busted a tire when he and his gang got to black Creek and he had to fork over $31.50 to get another one and they got to the picknick grund when everybody was thru eatin but that didn't stop him cause he had all the tables to hisself then.

Our gang met the press-Gazette gang from green bay at bonduel and we all went to the picknick grund and when the hacks were parked the gang said lets play ball and a whole flock of guys from the press gazett and the post-crescent walked over to a sand-hill about a half mile from the beach and they played ball which was one by the P-C by a score of 16 to 2, the same was empredt by Mr. Davis of the P. C. which is why the P. C. one the Press gazette gang all says, he only bulled a few disissions but they wasn't much razzing only a lot of dirty looks but they don't cut no figer in a ball game, its the noise which rattles em.

The green Bay gang showed they don't know much about playing ball and they was all scared of Carter's wicked curves which he through with four fingers and a lot of Body English, but he got good support especialy McInty who only made six errors and didnt try hard but it was hot and everybody sweated and he had a good time. The gang what staid at the beach and didn't go to the ball game got hungry and they was all thier eating when the ball heroes got back but they was alrite except the Green bay gang which was too ashamed to eat much.

After the ball heroes cleaned up what eats was left and drank a lot of pop nd ice creme cones there was other games with Joe Homer of Green bay running them. Mr. davis and Mr. Turnbull who is one of the high mucky-mucks of the newspaper got into a race but davis' short pants bothered him and Mr. Turnbull one. He mite have crawled on his hands and nees cause Mr. Davis he fell down and when he got up he was mixed up and started for to run the way he started. A lot of other guys help races and most of the PostCrescent guys won but then they had a tug of war which the Press-gazette gang one. They had all the fat guys except the boss and jim Brown. I saw the boss pull and of course he had to have an aibl and I saw him bawl out ralph Gee for pushing instead of pulling on the rope. Its a good thing they stopped the tug of war when they did cause otherwise they might of pulled the Post-Crescent gang clear into ceel which was only eight or nine miles away.

A green Bay guy with a camera got the two gangs together and took a couple of pictures he said everybody should stand still while he was taking it but I guess bert Rindahl didn't here him cause kept right on chewing gum and Louie Wagner strained his kneck trying to be sure his face would be in the picture. Louie wished he had a chair to stand on and while he was wishing the camera snapped but the guy that took the picture says nothing was broke.

A lot of guys and girls and kids went in swimming but I went with

Ralph gee and Bill Johnson and Don Morrissey a new guy and the boss over to the golf links which was a horse-pasture and I had to chase horses off so the guys could put. It was a good game and good scores was made. the boss he hit at the ball 22 times for the first hole which was a good score. Johnson only hit it nine times and gee he only had 17. morrissey said he couldn't figure his score without he had a adding machine but I guess he had only about 12 hits. The four guys they played 3 1/2 holes and they had no more room on the paper to mark down their scores so they quit.

When we got back to the beach Karl Koepke was thinking maybe its time to go home because it was 50 miles away and anyway he had a date for 8 o'clock and so the whole gang thought maybe it was time to go home and they piled in there hacks and started. Mr. Davis he made a count this morning and found all the guys was still alive but Jack Bergman he was almost not alive and the gang said no wonder he and ed Minton they never got away from the ice cream freezer. I wish I staired there too instead of going to the golf match.

Heidelberg, Germany — Heidelberg Castle and the city's 500 year-old uni- versity have ceased to be the chief at- tractions for tourists visiting this his- toric city. Instead visitors are seeking a three story house on Priest's Alley, in the workmen's section of the old city, to view the humble little apart- ment where Friedrich Ebert, first pres- ident of the German republic, was born 54 years ago.

FIRE CAUSES $300,000 DAMAGE IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee.—A stubborn fire Sun- day in commission row caused dam- ages estimated Monday at $300,000. The fire started in the four story building housing the Reichardt Au- tomotive Supply Co. and spread to other buildings, causing damage to Baumbach-Reichardt Co., Fredman Bag Co., Coogan and Andler, Gresbach and Millard.

widow and children visited the tiny rooms where the president's father, a tailor and his wife sheltered their ten children. For more than an hour the house was cleared while the widow and her children inspected the four small rooms in which the family lived when Friedrich was born.

The house bears a tablet proclaim- ing it the birthplace of the first suc- cessor to the Hohenzollerns under the new constitution. It is a simple dwell- ing, and modest, like a hundred others on the same street. The rooms are small and the ceilings low.

Thousands of German Republicans are flocking to this shrine and a move- ment is under way to set the building aside as a public museum.

PUBLIC OFFICE IS NOT AN INHERITANCE

When the late Senator La Follette embarked on a political career, he started at the bottom. The first public office he held was that of prosecuting attorney, which he filled several terms. He showed ability that resulted in his nomination and election to congress, where he again proved himself. After another 17 years of public service he was elected governor, and following this senator. After more than a generation of service as senator he was nominated for the presidency.

All men in American public life who have risen to eminence have worked their way up from the bottom rung up the ladder. The greater they were, the more completely they proved their worth in the discharge of responsibility, commencing with the humblest. In most instances their progress was slow and beset with obstacles. Lincoln's career is a conspicuous example, both of the American spirit and American opportunity. He "proved" himself by many years of public service and public activities, before either he or his friends asked larger recognition.

This is not a country in which men are elevated to high public station because of name, ancestry, position, birth. The very foundation of a republic politically is the filling of public offices and places of great trust and power by democratic methods and as a reward for merit. We do not elect a man to be a governor, or a senator or president because his father had filled one of these offices. We realize that he should enjoy no special prerogatives or credentials because of this fact or the relation. We nominate and elect men to be president or to any high office only after a long and thorough test of their fitness, their dependableness, their competency. To depart from this rule would be to virtually apply the system by which governmental power is exercised under an autocracy.

President Roosevelt left a son who chose to enter public life. But he did not, because he was the son of a president, ask to be put in his father's shoes. He sought no special favor out of the distinction and great political influence achieved by his father. He first stood as a candidate for the New York assembly. He performed a large amount of public service satisfactorily, was appointed to a position in the federal government's administrative service, and then became a candidate for governor of New York.

Robert M. La Follette, Jr., just past thirty, without having demonstrated in any manner whatsoever his capacity or fitness for public office, and without experience in public service, demands at one stroke the highest office reached by his illustrious father, after more than 40 years of public life. He claims the United States senatorship, the most important elective office in the country next to the president, for the sole and exclusive reason that his father held that office. His presumption, to say the least, is not emphasized by modesty. His candidacy is, measured by any and all tests of our system of government, a display of unmitigated nerve. On top of this, it is the result of a political frameup with a governor who aspires to another senatorship, and a few politicians whose hands are out for power and place.

BACK-TO-SCHOOL

This is the season of vacations but soon it will end and the question will arise in many family councils as to whether son or daughter is to continue in school or return to other labors. We use the expression "other labors" feeling there is a sound reason for the belief that every child of high school age should have some manual task to perform side by side with the educational duties, not only to reveal the propensities of the individual but to create a wholesome respect for manual labor by young America.

Parents at times err in letting age be the determining factor as to when a school career should terminate. Our compulsory attendance laws cannot be prophetic and have no magic power: the degree of training necessary to meet the probable future aims and interests of the individual child should form the basis for the decision.

Adolescents are often tempted by the romance of the world of business or by the desire to acquire more spending money to abandon the completion of their education. They lack the foresight to see that a premature entrance into the highly competitive fields of commerce can do them no good. They are in a period of rapidly changing ideals and there is little assurance that their own plans of today will meet their needs of tomorrow. Mature natures must extend a directing hand.

In our country the individual is largely ranked by his degree of leadership. We occupy positions at various steps of the ladder from the top rung to the lowest. A good education is today essential to a commanding place. Parents should make every reasonable sacrifice to see that their children get the proper training: that they go through the secondary school by all means and to college or university if the interests and capabilities of the child warrant. We do not raise the question of financial interference, for every graduating class of college and university is enriched by young men and women who have been self supporting during their collegiate training.

A college or university course is not universally essential. Much time and money may be wasted in an attempt to inject higher education into individuals whose capacities and inclinations forbid it.

However, parents owe it to their children to equip them with the foundation for a fruitful career. Youth should not be allowed to pull into blind alleys; to put itself into unfavorable position for making the most of life. A skimped education is a handicap—it may be a sentence of failure. The training of mind and body that our education institutions give insures the boy and girl a fair start and imparts an incentive that stirs ambition and builds self-assurance. This confidence in itself frequently determines success. A good education is an asset—a lack of it is a matter of regret. When vacations are ended let "Back-to-School" be your slogan.

INCOME TAX ALWAYS UNPOPULAR

They are trying to simplify the income tax. The more it is simplified, the more it is made just, the more intolerably complex it will become.

Somewhere between, a line must be drawn, probably by rule of thumb. Wherever it is drawn, it will still be complicated enough to be a nuisance to somebody, and arbitrarily uniform enough to be unjust to somebody.

Any other line would produce the same situation, with different victims. There is no such thing as a tax that is both simple and just.

There ought to be none that is either to the exclusion of the other. The only popular tax is the one the other fellow pays.

We cannot all have that, and if each of us tries to get it, the only result is confusion.

MAYBE THIS MAKES YOU TIRED

All folks' day, remember? I told here about chronic carbon monoxide gas poisoning and in my sarcastic way suggested that this condition, which seems to be on the increase nowadays, is commonly assumed to be anemia, rundown condition, overwork, worry, nervous exhaustion and all that sort of thing.

Fatal carbon monoxide poisoning from the exhaust of an automobile engine running in a small closed garage happens not infrequently and every such case is tragic evidence of the truth of my conviction that there is something radically wrong with the present system of popular education. If further testimony is needed, set down the everlasting shame of an occasional drowning fatality which is not prevented because the bystander doesn't know how to resuscitate—these trifles are not taught in our schools.

Probably some a little far fetched, especially to the highbrow intellect, to attempt to hold faulty education responsible for such things, but if so it is because the highbrow's conception of education is a shallow one: he harbors a smug little notion that it is really possible to have a sound mind in an unsound body, and on that theory he openly opposes or at best assumes a passive attitude toward all efforts to bring popular education up to date. That's what makes me tired. But maybe your tired feeling is caused by some other poison, and I would commend to your consideration chronic or occult carbon monoxide gas poisoning. I'll go to the extreme of offering you some symptoms of occult chronic CO-poisoning to try on, but in the same breath I must warn you that you can't fool a doctor with these symptoms, for he has a test or two which will quickly detect counterfeits.

Persons much exposed to the air of city streets, tunnels or other places where automobile traffic is heavy are liable to suffer chronic CO-poisoning. Whether it is because it requires no more than one part of carbon monoxide gas in 200 parts of air to produce acute, perhaps fatal CO-poisoning, the chance of slight chronic poisoning in the congested traffic does not seem so remote.

Of course there are many other sources of carbon monoxide gas poisoning. Illuminating gas contains a large amount of carbon monoxide. Any fuel burning with a restricted supply of air or with dampers closed may produce enough carbon monoxide to cause poisoning. Any form of heating appliance or stove, except electric heat, must have proper connection with the flue to carry off the products of combustion which are unsuitable or dangerous to breathe, and this is regardless of the question of odors—for the most fatal product of combustion, carbon monoxide, is both colorless and odorless.

Headache, languor, general debility, digestive disturbances, lowered nutrition, abnormal irritability or nervousness, neurasthenia (to give it a charitable name), and fear of impending lawsuit, fire, flood, divorce or communication from the internal revenue collector—these, howbeit feel across the shoulders, we can let it out at the waist. A peculiar characteristic of the apparent "anemia" of occult chronic carbon monoxide poisoning is that the blood count generally shows a full complement of red corpuscles, often well above the normal red cell count.

NO SECRETS NOW IN UNCLE SAM'S DEFENSE PLANS

Widespread Publicity Will Be Given War and Navy Activities Hereafter

Washington, D. C.—No longer are activities and latest inventions and devices of the United States army to be veiled in secrecy. An order has recently been issued changing this policy and providing for an organization whose duty it will be to see that the public is kept apprised of just what the army is doing toward strengthening our national defenses. It is felt that the people of the country are entitled to know just how the army occupies its time during peace.

Furthermore a clearer understanding of army activities will tend to weld a stronger bond between those in civilian life and those in the service.

The work of distributing this pictorial publicity is to be in charge of the chief signal officer. Each corps area commander is asked to direct his chiefs of branches and services to keep in mind such situations, events and developments which might interest the public so that timely pictures may be broadcast. The signal officer of each corps area is expected to provide ways and means for maintaining contact with the representatives of all news reel and still news agencies within that particular area.

CALL ON MOVIES

The proposed plan under which this organization is to be developed is to draw upon the services of the leading representatives of large motion picture companies and services which supply pictures to newspapers and magazines. Be it understood, that the aim is to obtain the cooperation of those executives who actually have the power to dictate the policies of their organizations. To these will be given commissions in the signal corps reserve.

The war department has solicited the cooperation of Will Hays, of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors Association of America, but as yet he has made no statement of his position in the matter. This association controls about 85 per cent of the moving picture output of the world, and it can readily be seen what a great aid this would be to the army in getting a general showing of pictures.

Since the main offices of most of the large motion picture companies are in New York, the greater number of those receiving commissions under this order will remain there. However, it will be necessary to have representatives in the other principal cities of the country, and particularly in those which are adjacent to corps area headquarters.

CHANGE NAVY ATTITUDE

The navy has realized the value of having the people of the country know their navy and understand what it is doing. As one young officer put it, "We are anxious that the people of this country shall become as familiar with their navy as those of Great Britain. Over there a man living in the most obscure rural district, and one who might be downright ignorant about things in general, when questioned about the navy can go into the minutest detail of what it is and what it does. In the middle west of this country there are people who do not know a destroyer from a battleship, or a turret from a torpedo. Why in the town from which I come, there are people who have known me all my life, know that I graduated from the naval academy but have no idea what it's all about. They call me

The Question Box

It is the desire and privilege of the organization this paper maintains in Washington to give reliable and prompt service to all requests for information. This is its purpose and its aim. It often happens, however, that readers write in for information and fail to give their name and addresses. Such occurrences leave the bureau helpless and, of course, the letters can not be answered. In order to avoid disappointment please make certain that your name and address is signed to every communication sent to the Bureau. Also be sure to enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. Address The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. How is "Swampscott" pronounced? K. E.

A. Massachusetts people pronounce "Swampscott" with the accent on the first syllable, and almost none on the second which sounds as if it were spelled "skt."

Q. I saw an article in a newspaper several days ago which told who first called Mr. Bryan the "Great Commoner". I can't recall the name and should like to know. V. A. M.

A. The Associated Press said that Willis J. Abbott, who is now editor of the Christian Herald, was responsible for it. He was one of many newspaper men in Mr. Bryan's hotel room after "Cross of Gold" speech had given him the Presidential nomination in 1896. A railroad official tendered Mr. Bryan the use of the railway president's car for his return to Nebraska. Mr. Abbott, the great speech still in his mind, exclaimed "But, Mr. Bryan, you certainly can not do that, you are a commoner. You are the Great Commoner."

Q. Are church pews considered real or personal property? N. A.

A. In the United States, pews are the property of the church corporation, which can sell or rent them. Whether they are real or personal property depends upon the State laws.

Q. How long is the growing season in Indiana compared with New England? A. R.

A. Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Missouri and Kansas have a growing season of from 150 to 180 days. In the New England States the season is from 120 to 160 days long.

Q. Where is the coffee buying center of the United States? A. N. R.

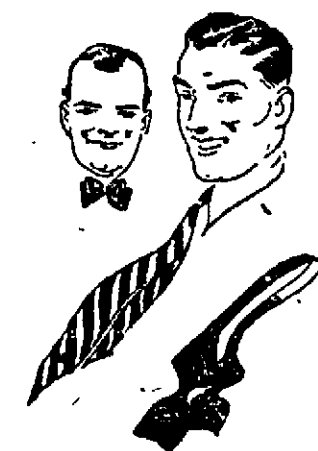

A. Chief cities are New York city and New Orleans.

everything from admiral to ordinary seaman."

While the navy has no picture publicity program such as is planned by the army, the officers in charge of publicity are ready and anxious to cooperate at all times with news photographers who desire to make pictures for their services.

Where formerly it was feared that any publicity might aid and abet foreign agents, it is now quite generally believed that this is not likely. It is presumed that possible foreign agents would obtain their information in more devious ways than by reading the public press, or attending motion picture shows where news reels acquaint the American people with what their military services are doing for them. It is realized that it is right that the people of the nation should know all there is to know about such matters. Of course exceptions are to be made in the case of military secrets which it is to their own interests to withhold from foreign powers. Further, it is beneficial to the service to have the people familiar with its activities. It inspires a confidence and a pride which are naturally conducive to a hearty support.

A CONTEMPORARY OF KEATS

Did you ever hear the name of John Clare? Did you ever see it in print and could you have told whether he was a butcher or a poet? I am very certain that I never saw the name until I read Amy Lovell's "Life of Keats."

And yet during Keats' own life time John Clare's name was much better known to the mass of English readers than the name of Keats. Clare was a man who had written a volume of verse called "Poems, Descriptive of Rural Life and Scenery." It was published with enormous success, according to Miss Lovell, and his name was a household word, while Keats, who may without reservations be compared with the greatest of the English poets could not sell more than a few hundred copies of his book.

The comparison between Keats and the nonentity called John Clare is all the more pat because they are not only come out with books at about the same time but because they were published by the same firm, Taylor, Hessey. If you and I had been living in England in 1850 and had not happened to belong to the small John Keats circle we would have known all about John Clare and almost nothing about John Keats. The chances are we would have read John Clare's poems because everybody was reading them and we would not have taken the trouble to open Keats's volume. We would have known what kind of a pen John Clare used, what time he got up in the morning and whether or not he drank wine with his dinner. In short we would have received the impression that John Clare was a big figure in poetry and very likely all we would have known about Keats would have been that the powerful Scottish reviews had abused him and had made fun of his poetry.

PRAISES BOOK

To point still more the contrast between the enormous popularity of the worthless versifier and the neglect of the great English poet, the Quarterly Review, which had heaped ridicule on the head of Keats, extravagantly praised the book of John Clare. It would have been nothing short of extraordinary if the average reader had not gotten the impression that Keats was negligible and that John Clare was a great poet.

The reason the great reviews took this attitude was a matter of politics pure simple. Keats was a liberal and the great reviews that lambasted him were violently Tory in sympathies. So they sacrificed a great poet to the political passions of the day and it is no wonder that the general public relied on these magazines and refused to buy the poems of the man who was being bitterly abused, while they bought by the thousands the volume of a nonentity who was right politically.

That kind of thing is hardly possible today and a poet is no longer judged by the brand of his politics, but the habit of mistaking versifiers for poets and neglecting the real poet is a common thing to this day. A shy American poet who is the real thing was lecturing in the home town of an enormously popular American versifier who is worshipped by the millions as John Clare was in Keats's day. Some one deplored an opinion about Mr. Blank, the versifier. Not liking to wound local pride, the shy poet nevertheless felt it necessary to be honest that the general public relied on these magazines and refused to buy the poems of the man who was being bitterly abused, while they bought by the thousands the volume of a nonentity who was right politically.

UNPOPULAR OPINION

It was an extremely unpopular opinion and was passionately resented by his audience. After the address a richly dressed lady approached him. "Do you drive a car?" she asked. The shy poet shook his head sadly. "Mr. Blank," said the indignant lady haughtily, "owns a Packard."

In 1820 identically the same incident might have occurred with John Keats and John Clare as the characters involved. John Clare probably drove a coach and four with a monogram on the door, while John Keats had to walk and then usually had barely enough to buy shoes. But then as now literature was not judged purely on its merits as literature but the persons who could make money with his work was assumed to be great while the person who could not was regarded by the average reader as negligible.

There is a sort of rough justice about the enormous posthumous fame of Keats and the complete eclipse of John Clare. But a little of the posthumous fame and money would have greatly brightened the life of the great poet. For him fame and money came too late.

WEIGHING THE EARTH IS NOT A DIFFICULT TASK

From The Greenville Piedmont.

Experiments are under way at the bureau of standards at Washington to weigh the earth.

Write down the figure six and place 21 cyphers after it. That's the approximate weight of the earth, six thousand million million million tons.

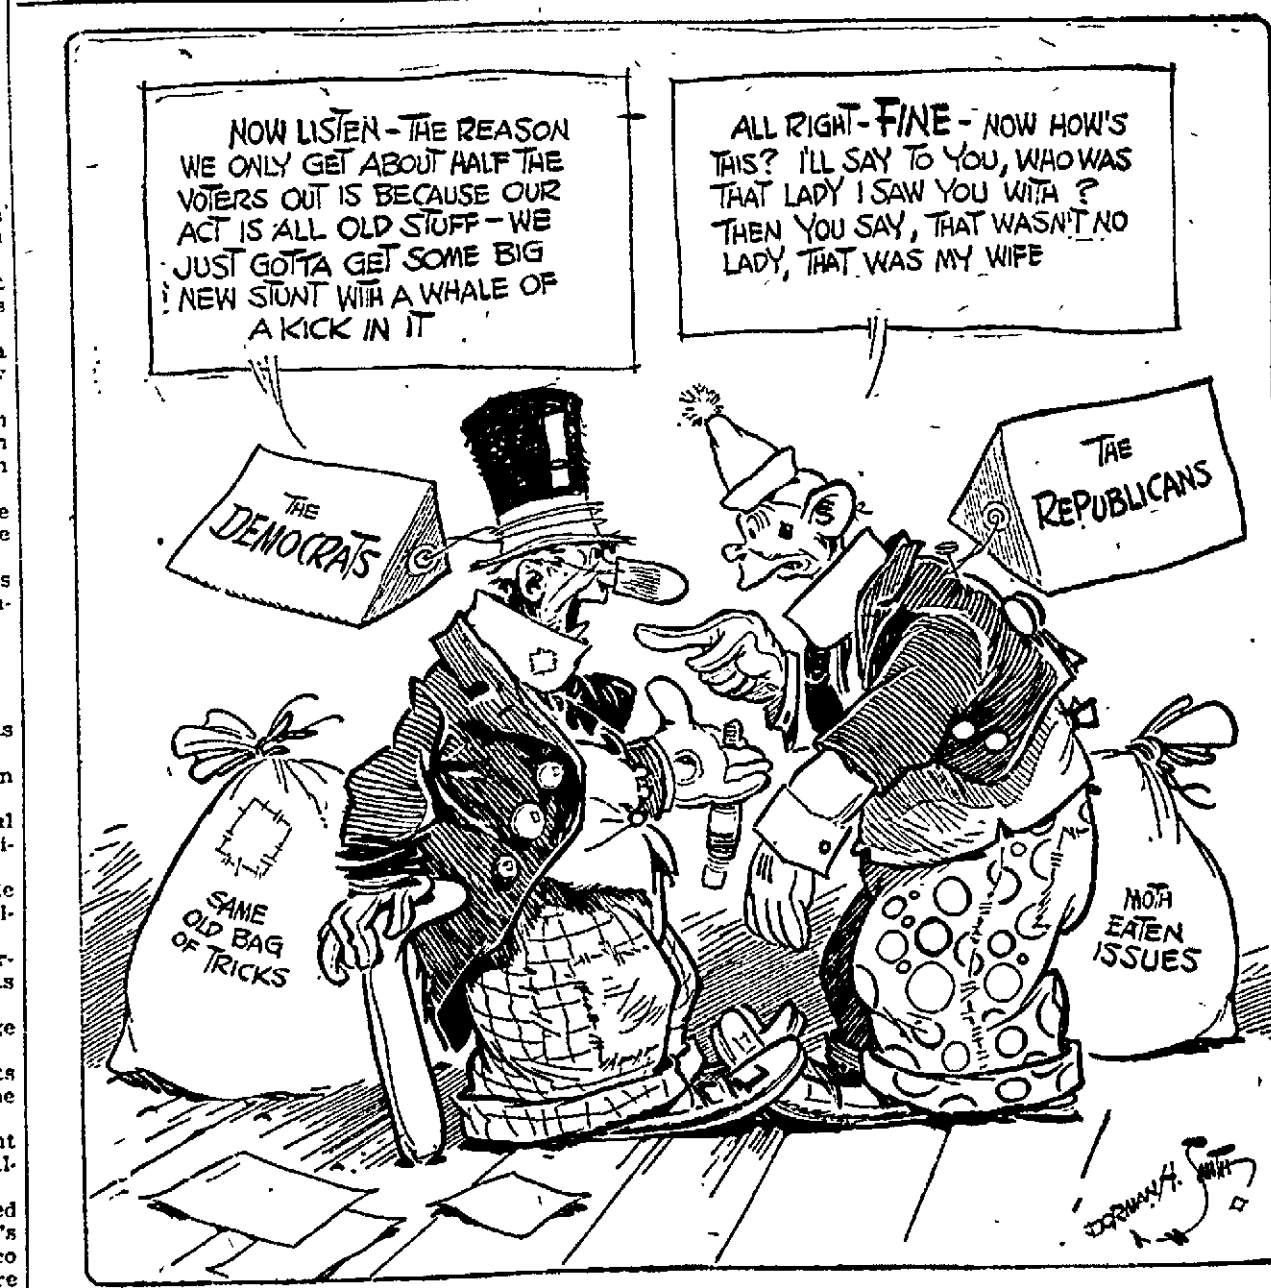

The bureau of standards, however, hopes to get a more accurate figure. Pioneers upon the last frontier, the frontiers of science—aware of the work with eagerness since a knowledge of the weight of the earth helps in solving many problems concerning the structure and composition of the earth's interior.

What the bureau does is to measure the force of attraction which two large steel balls exert upon two tiny gold ones.

We know that the attraction exerted by the earth is the force of gravity. Therefore the ratio of the force of gravity to the force exerted by the steel balls on the gold balls must be the same as the ratio of the weight of the earth to that of the steel balls.

All that is necessary, then, is to weigh the steel balls, and from that figure calculate the weight of the earth.

TORNADO SELDOM STRAYS BEYOND CERTAIN AREAS

Vagaries of Fierce Storms Baffle Investigations of Scientists

By Associated Press

Washington, D. C.—The vagaries of tornadoes, one variety of which recently snuffed out upwards of 800 lives in the middle west, have almost completely baffled the researches of science. The suddenness with which they strike, and the destructive force of their attack, have made scientific study extremely difficult.

Prof. William J. Humphreys, of the weather bureau, describes a tornado as "a violent rotating storm of small dimensions." The chances are, he says, that not once in 1,000 years would a tornado hit the same spot twice.

The name tornado originally was applied to a violent thunderstorm on the west coast of Africa. The variety of storm now called by that name, however, is peculiar to the Mississippi valley region of the United States, and rarely occurs in any other part of the world. Dr. Humphreys' records show that it does not occur west of Denver; is found only occasionally in southern Canada; is rare in eastern part of the United States, and is not destructive in or east of the Allegheny mountains, excepting Alabama and Georgia.

The explanation is that the rocky mountains, extending generally north and south, guide the cold air draining to the south from the Canadian Rocky region. The drift of wind comes across the warm waters of the Gulf of Mexico and starts north across the United States. The meeting of these cold and warm currents of air starts up a rotation between them. Dr. Humphreys explains, adding that no other part of the world has that geographic configuration existing in the Rocky-Gulf area.

The passage of these currents establishes violent rotations at cloud levels and the whirl beats itself down to the bottom, usually from a level of less than a mile above the earth, to the ground.

The tornado only occurs in connection with a big rain or snow-bringing storm and is usually from 1,000 to 1,500 feet wide.

The peculiar phenomenon of the tornado "skipping," striking a spot and jumping over a stretch of country leaving it undisturbed, is not so well understood. The upper part of the tornado seems for some reason to move ahead, breaking off its lower portion, and then, as it speeds on, the whirling wind finds its way to the ground again.

OLD TIMERS HIT OUT 8 TO 7 WIN OVER TWILIGHTS

Youngsters Pile Up Early Lead but Former Stars
Come Back Strong

Kaukauna—Former Kaukauna league ball players, were superior to the class of the Twilight league and won an 8 to 7 victory Sunday afternoon in a benefit encounter for Norman Kito. The youngsters took the lead in the early part of the contest and piled up a good count while the old timers were loosening up. After the rut had been worn from their joints the former leaguers uncorked a batting attack that made them winners.

It was a good game and about 250 people turned out for the pastime. The crowd was much smaller than was anticipated since a large number of tickets had been reported sold. Both clubs whacked the apple freely, although the bingles were nearly all Texas leaguers with here and there a hard hit ball that went for extra bases. Mereness tolled on the hill for the Twilight league outfit and he had the hands until the fifth inning. Then the superior judgment of the old heads asserted itself and the tide turned in their favor.

Regenfuss, once a favorite in local baseball, was not in old time shape and his opponents clouted his offerings all over the garden just out of reach of the infielders. Eddie Koch took up the burden in the fifth stanza and he breezed 'em in so that the youngsters were helpless the rest of the encounter.

LONG LEGS COUNT
Young Jimmie McFadden was the king sticker of the day, getting four bingles in five trips to the plate. Jim's long legs enabled him to beat out two infield pops which ordinarily would have been easy outs.

The Twilight leaguers opened their run column in the second stanza. Slama started out safe on the pitcher's error, was sacrificed to second and scored on Beier's hot single over short. Beier stole second and third and scored on a wild pitch. Ryan was the second out but Stark walked, stole second and counted on Kavanagh's single.

The boys added three more in the fourth when the batted around. Slama and Dix singled. Beier was safe on first on a fielder's choice while Dix was retired at second. Slama stopping at third. Ryan sacrificed to center field. Slama scoring and Beier going to third from where he scored on a past ball. Stark was given his second walk. He advanced on Kavanagh's single and scored when McFadden dumped his second hit over second. Kavanagh holding up on third. With the bases choked Mereness fanned for the third out.

The former leaguers threatened in the third but managed to register only one button. Regenfuss was hit with a pitched ball, he advanced on Collin's single but was caught off third when Gehr forced him. Minkebig came through with a hit and Collins was nailed at home after a pretty relay from center field to Mereness to Dix. Gehr scored on a passed ball.

They counted again in the fourth when Klammer opened with a screaming double to the fence and scored on Pleshek's single. Minkebig counted the third marker in the fifth when he was safe on Francois' wild leave to first. Nagan's single and Stegeman's double which looked like a home run, aided Minkebig over the rubber.

ERROR STARTS RALLY
In the sixth inning the bottom of the game dropped out for the younger players. Cooke opened up by being safe on Kavanagh's fumble. Zink fanned but Riehl, batting in place of Gehr, came through with a hit which was duplicated by Minkebig. Cooke ran the path from first base to score on Riehl's hit and Riehl counted on Minkebig's bingle. Johnson was safe on a fielder's choice and Minkebig was safe on third when Francois dropped the ball after tagging the runner.

Minkebig counted while Nagan was being retired at first and Johnson brought in the seventh counter for the old timers when Mereness threw wild to first after taking down Klammer's hot roller.

The men increased their lead in the eighth when Nagan poked the second ball pitched to the fence for a three baseer. He scored on Klammer's hit. Mereness was touched for 14 safe hits, including two doubles and a triple. He walked two batters and fanned six.

Regenfuss tolled on the mound for four rounds. He allowed seven hits and walked two men, which with errors, accounted for all the runs collected by the losers. The youngsters registered eight bingles off Koch's speed balls but the safeties were kept scattered. Koch struck out six batters.

HOOVER FAVORS SIMPLE PROCESS TO PASS VESSELS

Secretary Would Hasten Tortuous Legal Processes for Captains

Washington—To save time, money and annoyance, Secretary Hoover favors a simplification of the tortuous legal process through which a merchant ship must pass under present regulations when she enters an American port.

These regulations bring an arriving vessel into contact with five different departments of the government, and innumerable bureaus. The process is described by Mr. Hoover, as follows:

The master of the vessel first encounters the health authorities, representing the public health service of the treasury department, who board the ship at quarantine and examine into health conditions of crew and passengers.

At the same time customs officials arrive. They also are officials of the treasury department, but in this particular instance they represent also the commerce department. On behalf of the treasury they have various duties in connection with the collection of customs, and receive the manifests and other documents from the master. As representatives of the department of commerce, if there are storage passengers on the vessel, they examine sanitary conditions and other matters relating to the enforcement of the passenger acts.

The immigration officers likewise board the ship, representing the department of labor, and perform their duties in connection with the enforcement of the immigration laws.

The ship then leaves quarantine and next meets with officials of the coast guard, who designate anchorage grounds, acting under delegation from the war department, which has this duty under the law.

If the vessel violates any of the navigation laws, in proceeding through the harbor, the penalties are considered and enforced by the bureau of navigation in the department of commerce. The officers guilty of violations are subject to trial by the steamboat inspection service.

When the ship finally docks, a formal entry is made with the collector of customs, who supervises the entry and unloading of the cargo. In receiving the entry, the collector acts as an official of the department of commerce. In supervising the unloading, he acts for the treasury department.

The next official who deals with the vessel is the shipping commissioner, also an officer of the department of commerce, before whom the master discharges his crew if he wants charts, he must go to the representatives of the coast and geodetic survey of the department of commerce for those covering inland waters, and to the hydrographic bureau of the navy department for those covering ocean waters.

BRITONS BALK AT WHISKEY PRICES

Englishmen, Resenting High Cost, Put Boycott on Beverages

London—A whiskey rebellion is brewing in His Majesty's domains. The fact that one pays more for the legal purchase of a bottle of whiskey in British than for an illegally obtained one in America, is too much for the Scotch distillers and the English consumers. Several visits to the chancellors of the exchequer and a boycott on spirits have been undertaken.

This dual effort has been unproductive. Chancellor Churchill is making no provision for a reduction of the excise tax in his coming budget and, although the home consumption of spirits has dropped 50 per cent, from 24,064,000 gallons in 1914 to 12,583,000 in 1924, the foreign demand has kept the vats full and the distilleries wide open. About 25,000,000 gallons were distilled last year, against 1,000,000 gallons less than that amount in 1924.

The distiller and the consumer, who thus have been brought together, have organized a society with the object of telling their less interested countrymen of their grievances. The society is contemplating a national-wide campaign for the reduction of the domestic revenue tax on spirits.

AUTOIST HURT WHEN CAR IS PUSHED INTO DITCH

Forced off the road by another driver Sunday morning, Edward Becker, Black Creek, suffered a severe cut across his forehead when he was thrown against the windshield and one side of his touring car was completely wrecked. The driver of the other car pushed Becker's car into the ditch in such a manner that both wheel on the damaged side were torn off and the car was thrown over on its side along the road. Becker, who was driving, was thrown against the lower glass of the windshield, breaking it and sending his head against the sharp edges of the broken glass.

BIG LOVE THRILLER

AT THE ELITE
An unusual patonic trial marriage furnishes the chief dramatic situation in "His Supreme Moment," which is the attraction at the Elite Theatre today, tomorrow and Wednesday.

A beautiful and luxury-loving New York actress falls in love with a young mining engineer and proposes that they spend a year in South America as brother and sister before making their final decision. Faced with the hardships of the primitive life, the girl loses beauty, and her love for the man is submerged. Yet when he is attacked by rebellious native miners, she saves his life in a spectacular fight which ends in the burning of the mine buildings.

Back in New York, the man yields to the blandishments of a young heiress who was instrumental in financing his mining venture, and who aided in making the trial marriage a failure. The actress returns to the stage, where she is co-starred with her mother, also a successful actress. An unnatural maternal jealousy is overcome and the mother succeeds in uniting the girl and the young mining engineer.

wind at night; aeroplane stunts in midair; beautiful shots at a great beach resort, scene in a palatial banquet hall with dancing and diving girls, a marriage on a broad expanse of lawn—these are some of the scenes which were successfully photographed for "Mine to Keep." Both Eddie Lindon and Jack Stevens, the cameramen, are experts as the picture itself proves and their record on celluloid is one of the finest ever made.

The difficulty of night photography is to preserve the illusion and at the same time have enough light to distinguish the people and the action. This was accomplished with great skill by this team of lens wizards.

"THE SPANIARD" ACTION-DRAMA

Imagine a production which combines all the best features of "Blood and Sand" and "The Sheik!" Just such a picture is "The Spaniard," produced by Raoul Walsh, who made "The Thief of Bagdad," for Paramount and which starts Tuesday at Fischers Appleton Theatre.

Ricardo Cortez, Jetta Goudal and Noah Beery are featured in the leading roles of the production, based on the novel of the same name by Juanita Savage.

The Spaniard is Ricardo Cortez, idol of the bull-rings of Spain, who turns out to be a nobleman. When the picture opens we find him at a fashionable affair in London, where he has created nothing less than a sensation among the women folk. It is the eve of his departure for Spain. He meets and, true to form, starts to woo the beautiful English society girl, Dolores Annesley. But Dolores has quite a reputation as a heartbreaker herself. This annoys the fiery Spaniard not a little, and he decides then and there to tame Dolores if it's the last thing he does. ## COURT PAROLES YOUNG BURGLAR TO HIS MOTHER

Leeman Boy Who Confessed
Robbing Store Is Placed in Mother's Custody

Herbert Peters, town of Maine youth, who pleaded guilty to the charge of robbing the Ben Mills general merchandise store at Leeman on the night of June 30, when he appeared in municipal court on Friday Aug. 7, was paroled to his mother until he reaches the age of 21, which will be Jan. 13, 1925, by Judge Theodore Berg Monday morning. Peters was arrested by Sheriff Schwartz while Judge Hennemann was presiding in Municipal court and had been placed in jail in default of $1,000 bond. His trial was set for July 21, but at that time the municipal bench was vacant, due to the death of the late Judge A. M. Spencer.

Peters had declared his guilt to Ben Mills, proprietor of the store, and he accused Leeman and Earl Wing of the same neighborhood of being accomplices. Investigation by John E. Lonsdorf, district attorney, showed, however, that several people could prove that the Wing boys were at other places at the time the robbery took place. Peters then repudiated his former statement and confessed that a "grudge" accounted the charge. The Wing brothers were freed on Aug. 7.

USE CIRCUS IDEA TO BUILD TOWN

Ringlings Promote Florida
Real Estate and Make City Grow by Publicity

Sarasota, Fla.—This is the city which circus posters built.

The Ringling brothers, John and Charles, applied the methods used to make their show famous to attracting real estate buyers here.

The result is evident.

One year ago the population of Sarasota was 2,500.

Today it is 12,000 and the total is increasing with arrival of every train.

Twenty years ago Sarasota was a small fishing village. Handicapped by lack of rail facilities and roads it stayed a village until a year ago when Florida became the mecca of land seekers and playground hunters.

Now it has rail connections with nearly every city of importance in Florida. In common with all other west coast cities, and with Miami on the east coast, Sarasota still lacks mail service.

Adequate mail service, that is.

Crowds stand line at the general delivery windows, because there is no space for boxes and no adequate delivery service.

Then they receive packages mailed one, two and three months ago, delayed because mail cars are clogged just as the Pullmans and day coaches are.

There are 25 millionaires citizens in Sarasota, all active in civic affairs. Charles Ringling is the principal banker.

The magic boom here, about 50 miles south of Tampa, rivals that of Miami on the east coast.

The boom is not confined to Sarasota. It takes in the entire west coast from north of Tampa to south of Nakhomis.

A street scene any day rivals that of a country fair. Free rides, concessions, sandwiches, and side-shows of every description run as an inducement to buyers.

Recently all food in the city, even down to sandwiches, was consumed by the hungry horde of real-estateors and their customers.

WHOLE COAST ACTIVE
Millions are being spent in the building program. Probably $5,000,000 is going into hotel projects. A Ritz Carlton is being constructed by public subscription. John Ringling contributed $100,000 in stock. The public subscribed $400,000.

In another hotel project the public bought $700,000 in stock. A newspaperman here bought a 50-foot lot for $20,000 and was offered $30,000 at once. He built a house on the lot, and now is asking $50,000.

Eighty acres of land three miles from the water front were to have been sold in 1923 for $40,000. Court procedure delayed sale. The same property was sold a short time ago for $45,000.

The buyer cut it into allotments and obtained $240,000.

John Ringling filled in 27 acres and sold it for $12,500 a acre.

Altogether a total of 33,000 acres of key land with 36 miles of water front has been acquired.

$4,000 TO $240,000
A causeway costing $1,000,000 is being constructed. Eighteen pillars for the causeway entrance are being "transported" from Madison Square Garden in New York City, also owned by the Ringlings.

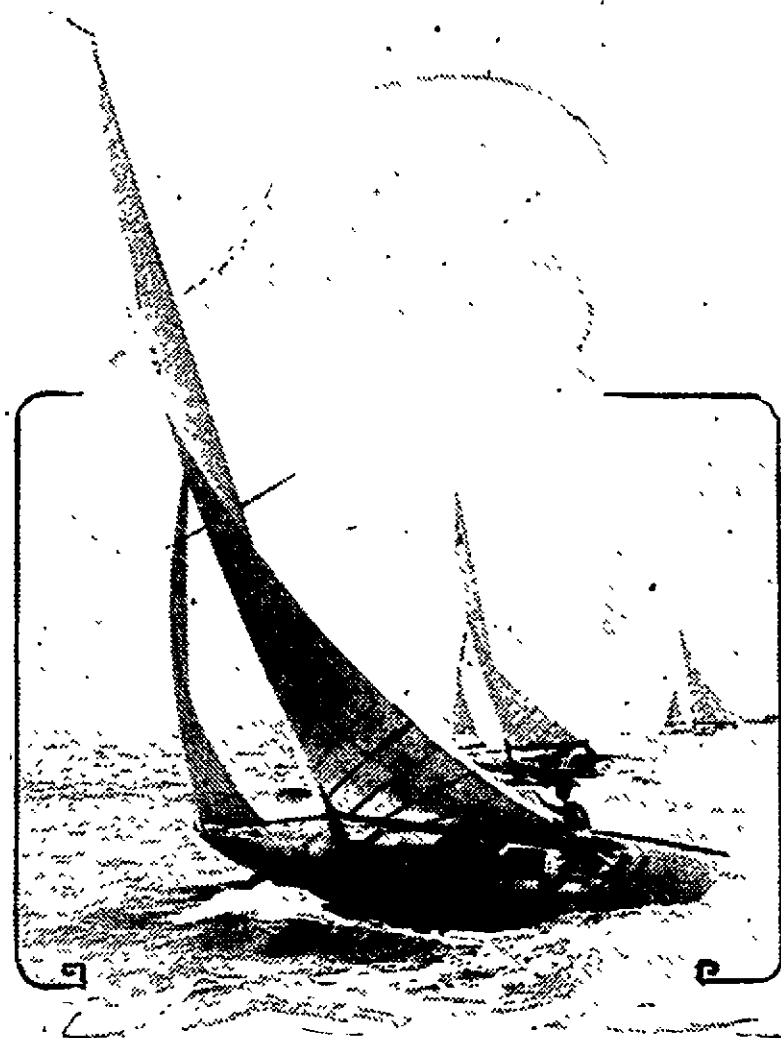

Dr. Fred H. Albee, New York, surgeon and authority at Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, has bought 5,000 acres, 16 miles south of here at Nakhomis.

He plans to expend $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 for the enterprise which has four bays arranged like a four leaf clover. He plans also to establish a clinic for convalescent patients.

NEW Teacher Here
Prof. John Ross Frampton who succeeded Prof. Ludolf Arnesen as instructor of piano at Lawrence Conservatory of Music, moved into his new home at 135 E. Lawrence street, Monday.

Prof. Frampton formerly was connected with Oberlin College, Oberlin, O.

Calls Badger Highway Marking Best On Earth

BY N. M. ISABELLA

State Highway Maintenance Engineer
Very little systematic maintenance work was done in Wisconsin prior to the passage of the State Trunk Highway Law in 1917. Briefly, this law provided for the laying out, maintaining, marking and signing of a 5,000-mile system of state highways, this system to connect all cities having 5,000 population or over and all the county seats. While there had been maintenance work done prior to the passage of this law on very short stretches of highways in various sections of the state, there had been nothing done in a systematic way whereby through routes were maintained for travel throughout the season.

In carrying out the wishes of the legislature, the Wisconsin Highway Commission adopted a system that is commonly known as the patrol system of maintenance and decided to operate with the county as a unit instead of carrying on the work directly through its forces. In so doing the state took advantage of the fact that practically all counties were equipped with road building and road maintaining machinery which could be used very profitably on maintenance work. In 1918, the first year under which the maintenance work was carried on, the 5,000 mile system was divided into 561 patrol sections, each section being in charge of a patrolman. This man was made responsible for the condition of his section for the entire season, which comprised the period between April 1 and December 1. The patrolman in each case was obliged to sign a contract for the season and furnish a bond of $500 to insure proper care of the equipment turned over to him by the county. The contract specified that the patrolman furnish a team, and wagon and that the grader, planer and tools were to be furnished by the counties.

10,000 MILES IN SYSTEM

This system of maintenance was in operation but a very short time before the people of this state realized the value of maintaining in a systematic way the highways of the state. In fact, several counties during the first year of operation of this law adopted county trunk systems and applied the same methods of maintenance on these county roads as were being carried on the state trunk highways. The state trunk highway system of 5,000 miles has been enlarged to cover a system of 10,000 miles at the present time. The county trunk systems have increased from 2,000 miles in 1918 to approximately 10,000 miles in 1925. The rapid growth of both the state and county trunk systems illustrates very forcibly the desires or demands of the motor vehicle operators. When they see that highways are systematically maintained they are willing to pay for them.

Many states in the Union today have adopted maintenance programs. They vary considerably in the manner in which the work is executed, some desiring to do the work directly under state supervision, others working through the counties and local units. It is rather difficult to say definitely what system is the best until it can be truthfully said that the system that provides the best maintenance is the best system for that particular state.

In conjunction with the maintenance of the state trunk highways, the law also provided for the marking and signing of these highways. This has been carried out with some success in Wisconsin. In fact, it is believed that very little difficulty is experienced at the present time in traveling from one end of the state to the other over the marked highways. It has been said by various visitors from other states that "It is harder to get lost in Wisconsin than to find your way in many states."

While we have made rapid strides in the matter of highway maintenance and marking, we still have a big problem before us to properly care for the rapidly increasing traffic. The motor vehicle registration in 1918 was approximately 200,000. In 1925 we will have approximately 600,000. In other words, the registration during the past seven years has trebled. In 1919 the average daily traffic at our regular traffic stations was 600 vehicles. This figure, of course, is the average over the entire state, many stations showing several times this many and others considerably less than this figure. In 1924 the average daily traffic at the same traffic stations was 2,035, showing that traffic is rapidly increasing. Besides the increase in the ordinary motor vehicle traffic, we have the motor bus service which is rapidly developing. In the past three or four years this type of service has developed to the extent that it now gives a very definite service to the public. The possibilities of the motor bus are just beginning to be realized. The time will come and it is not far distant when there will be transcontinental bus lines affording sleeping accommodations and dining car service to their patrons. There is a great demand for year around service on the highways and this brings in other problems to be solved in the way of highway construction and maintenance.

It is often stated by certain individuals that we are building and maintaining our highways for a certain class of people that derive only pleasure in driving over them. Statistics show that the great bulk of travel is for business purposes. It is very true that in many cases, business is combined with pleasure, but nevertheless in most cases where the motor vehicle is used over the highway it is with a definite motive in mind.

Wisconsin is considered quite a tourist state and the "playground" for many of the surrounding states. Traffic counts show that during the past year approximately 700,000 for elign or out-of-state cars visited Wisconsin. They also show that these 700,000 cars carried approximately 2,500,000 people. The average stay per car in this state was approximately eleven days and the average expenditure per person per day was $3.21, thus making an expenditure by the tourists alone of over $50,000,000.

SOURCE OF FUNDS

The funds expended for the maintenance of the state and county trunk highways are derived mainly from the motor vehicle license fees. During the season of 1924 there was spent on

FEMINISTS OF ITALY RECALL ERA OF BORGIA

Proponents of Equal Rights for Women Start Vigorous Campaign

By Associated Press

Rome—Angered by the suspicion that they have been the victims of a political game and indignant at the idea that the government has broken its promise to grant woman suffrage in municipal elections, Italian proponents of equal political rights for men and women have begun a new and vigorous campaign to win public opinion to their side of the case and to make the government change its stand.

The decision of committees of the senate and chamber of deputies, rejecting woman's suffrage as a step too inopportune to be taken at this time, was a particularly bitter one for the suffragists because it came but a short time after their hopes had been raised as they had been never before, by the declaration of Premier Mussolini before a congress of women from all parts of the globe that Italy intended to grant the vote to women.

Government leaders explain their change of front as a necessary result of the present political situation, but the women refuse to believe this, especially since one government spokesman was quoted as saying: "Italy has suffered too much in the past from women rulers; it is not easy to forget the Borgias."

The National Association of Italian Women has issued a manifesto declaring that 43 nations have granted the vote to women and that Italy runs the risk of being the last to take the step thereby creating false ideas abroad about social and political conditions south of the Alps. Senators and deputies are being besieged by women visitors and their mail boxes flooded with letters. The newspapers are receiving scores of letters, many of them expressing important Italian women to answer the assertion that Italy has suffered by the misdeeds of its women, which were located in universities.

Educators generally recognize the value of visual education, but at present the movie lesson is considered more or less of an entertainment period, according to F. Dean McCluskey of the University of Illinois. Prof. Frank N. Freeman of the University of Chicago, in announcing the results of more than 20 experiments in visual education, asserted there was no justification for unusual enthusiasm for the movie as a medium of instruction. He said, however, that the motion picture does have a value, but its use requires the same careful presentation as other subject matter in order to be made effective as teaching devices.

The practice of using motion pictures as teaching aids in the infancy, or in the same place that physical and chemical laboratories were 25 years ago," said William H. Dudley, chief of the University of Wisconsin bureau. "While visual education should never and probably will not entirely supplant other methods of instruction, it will continue to be used more as a supplement to discussion and lecture."

"Criticism made against their use because the movie lesson merely offers diversion and amusement to the children is ungrounded when teachers will take the proper attitude." At Iowa State an entire division of the college is devoted exclusively to this work, due to the schools and organizations having learned the benefits to be derived, said Prof. Charles Roach. Consequently the popularity of the service has substantially increased. Visual instruction offers more spectacular display and through it the instinctive desire to see is capitalized, he declared. "Somehow, humans will spend enormous sums and time to see an object. Working on the theory that 'seeing is believing,' we have enlarged our service."

In the survey made it was disclosed that the 14 university libraries contained more than 7,500 reels of film and that 57 per cent could be classified as dealing with entertainment subjects, 16 per cent industrial, 15 per cent literature and the remainder miscellaneous.

both the state and county trunk highways a sum exceeding $5,000,000. Approximately $3,000,000 of this was spent on the state trunk highways. In 1915 approximately $1,000,000 was spent on our 5,000 mile system, thus summing that the average car in 1918 traveled 4,000 miles, this would mean that the 200,000 cars traveled a total of 800,000,000 miles. This is a maintenance cost per mile of vehicular travel of one-eighth of a cent in 1918 on a 5,000 mile system. In 1924, assuming that each car traveled an average of 5,000 miles, the total mileage traveled by the 500,000 cars was 2,500,000,000 miles, and the expenditure on the state trunk system was $3,000,000. This would give an expenditure of one-ninth of a cent per mile of vehicular travel in 1924, on a 10,000 mile system.

The fact that the expenditure per mile of vehicular travel in 1924, was less than in 1918 is a pretty good indication that maintenance methods have improved considerably thereby giving better service to the traveling public at a lesser cost.

As stated above, approximately $300 per mile is being expended annually on the maintenance of the state trunk highway system. Approximately $10 per mile is being expended for marking, signing and detouring the traffic. This amount of money is saved many times over to the motor vehicle owners in the lessening of their car operation costs and in time saving. No one will dispute the fact that good maintenance and marking and signing costs money, but it saves money for the motor vehicle owner. Remember that "What You Pay for You Get" is of less import than "What You Get for What You Pay." Also that "civilization is measurable in terms of transportation."

BOEHM'S CASE CALLED IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Anton Boehm, Calumet Harbor resort keeper, charged with failing to stop and render assistance after knocking down a pedestrian with his car, will be arraigned before Judge Theodore Berg Tuesday morning in municipal court. Boehm ran down Ben J. Beschta of this city after the latter had alighted from a street car on the corner of N. Morrison and E. North-sts on Tuesday evening, July 21. After he knocked Beschta to the pavement he is alleged to have sped away, going around the block to throw pursuers of his trail, before returning to the Northwestern depot where he had an appointment. He was arrested when bloodstains were found on his car.

Beschta suffered a broken ankle and severe injuries to his head. The case had been called earlier but was postponed because the local man was too weak to appear in court against Boehm.

CAMERA CATCHES RAPID SHADOWS AT SUN ECLIPSE

Photographs of Bands on Hot Planet Taken for First Time

By Associated Press

Tucson, Ariz.—Photographs of the shadow bands on the sun during the total eclipse early this year, were made successfully in the east with an apparatus designed and built by Dr. A. E. Douglass, director of the Steward Observatory here. The Arizona astronomer recently received the first prints from exposures made by his shadow-band camera, used at Middletown, Conn., under the supervision of Dr. H. T. Stetson, head of the astronomical department at Harvard.

At the time the exposures were made weather conditions were perfect. The temperature was four below zero. As the recording of these shadow-bands, a source of mystification to leading authorities; had never been achieved successfully in previous eclipses, the present attainment is regarded important to science. Dr. Douglass says the experiment proves beyond doubt that the waves are caused by irregularities in the density of atmosphere, a theory he has held for many years.

The prints show the shadow-bands distinctly. They were rendered visible to the camera lens by the smallness of the sun's crescent. The pictures were taken during the minute preceding and the minute following totality of the eclipse. Dr. Douglass points out that the same effect is seen from distant electric lights and on stars viewed through a strong telescope.

The photographic outfit consisted of a 13-inch converse mirror, focusing a beam of light through a small opening on to a film six inches beyond the focus. This concentrated the light and enormously increased the contrast, thus bringing in prominence these very faint shadows.

W. D. Schlaefter returned Saturday from his vacation in northern Wisconsin.

ORDER "AREA TEST" OF OUTAGAMIE-CO CATTLE

STATE AND U.S. COOPERATE TO DRIVE OUT T. B.

Examination of Cattle for Tuberculosis to Start Within 60 Days

An area test of Outagamie-co cattle for tubercular diseases will be started within 60 days by the Wisconsin Commission of Agriculture as the result of a hearing held before John D. Jones, Jr., a member of the commission, at the courthouse on Friday. Fifty farmers from all parts of the county attended the hearing. Mr. Jones opened the meeting by explaining the plan of the county-wide tests and this was followed by a general discussion and questions by the farmers.

Mr. Jones announced that two veterinarians will be assigned to each township and an effort will be made to clean up the county this fall. The state and federal government pays for the work and also an indemnity on all of the cattle which have to be slaughtered because of the disease. The indemnity is determined in two ways. A cow is either sold for meat or appraised for shipment. The state and federal government pays the full meat value of the animal plus one-half the loss on the appraised value. Thus a cow appraised at $80 and sold for meat at $30 would pay the farmer the $30, for the meat and $15 or 1/2 the loss on the appraised value, or a total of $45.

MAXIMUM IS $90
The maximum sum that a farmer can receive is $40 on common stock or "grades" and up to $90 on purebreds. To get more than $40 the cattle owners must furnish registered papers with the animals. No indemnities will be paid on steers or grade bulls, Mr. Jones said.

Herds where infection is found will be retested in six months and a retest of the entire county will be made in three years from the first test. Practically all of the northwestern part of the state has been tested by this method. Waupaca-co was the last one to complete the work. Under the present plan the state or federal government gets the work done much cheaper than the individual by organization. It cost Barron-co 17 cents a head where the usual charge was 50 cents a head.

DEMAND PURE MILK
Mr. Blaisdell, a field representative of the Chicago board of health, gave a short talk on the situation in Chicago. He said that Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, famous Chicago health specialist and head of the board of health, had announced recently that after June 24, 1926, Chicago probably would require that every gallon of milk or cream that comes to that city would have to come from tested areas. Part of Illinois have many diseased cattle in practically every herd.

In Waupaca-co results of the test showed that 7 out of 1,000 or only .77 of 1 per cent of the cattle were reactors and not many more are expected in this county, according to R. A. Amundson, county agricultural agent. In the Lake Geneva country in this state and northern Illinois sections have been found where there were as high as 50 per cent cattle infection. Out of 500 tested in one section of Wisconsin, 286 were reactors. Illinois is spending close to $2,000,000 this year for testing herds and most of it is for indemnities on slaughtered cattle. The state buys cattle to replace the herds lost.

Of 70,000 head tested in Buffalo-co 1,400 were found to be tubercular and post-mortem examinations held and when they were slaughtered all but 112 showed tubercular lesions. Out of the 70,000 tested, the state was wrong on only 1 in 700, and in some through no fault of the tests. This shows the reliability of the work, Mr. Amundson said. Wisconsin, by this fall will have more area-tested cattle than any state or country in the world. All farmers of Outagamie-co will be notified before the testers arrive, Mr. Amundson said.

WARN AGAINST CAR SWINDLE

Four-hundred Automobile Owners Were Victimized by Crook's Trick

Appleton automobile owners who intend to get rid of their old used cars should be cautious about the dealer to whom they turn over the old "bus" for a sale or trade, according to a warning recently issued by the National Automobile Dealers association. The association bulletin warns against a used car swindle that was operated successfully for the third time in Pittsburgh, in which 400 car owners suffered losses from $100 to $2,000.

This third successful swindle has just been uncovered in Pittsburgh. The new York and Los Angeles swindlers were operated in the same way. The swindler went to a bank, deposited $40,000 in capital, rented a vacant lot and opened up for used car sales. Automobile owners were asked to bring in their old cars, leave them with the used car dealer, in return for which he gave him the value of the car. When questioned he gave the bank as reference and the car owners learning of the $40,000 on deposit went away satisfied that their cars were safe. Suddenly the used

SELL STOLEN HORSES AT PUBLIC AUCTION FRIDAY

Sale of a carload of horses recently stolen in Terry, Mont., and shipped to Dale by J. A. Boyd will be held at the Charles Hoffman farm, a mile north of Dale, where the horses are pastured, at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, according to Sheriff P. G. Schwartz. The entire carload, owned by 12 ranchers in three counties of Montana will go under the hammer for cash. The proceeds of the sale will be used to pay $400 expenses and the remainder will be sent to the former owners.

Mr. Schwartz is acting as the agent of Sheriff Floyd Davis of McComb-co, and Sheriff Ben F. Bragg of Prairie-co, Mont. Jule Denhardt is to be the auctioneer.

SHEBOYGAN GETS NEXT MEETING OF BADGER ZIONISTS

Appleton Men Prominently Identified With Wisconsin Organization

Appleton will be represented by at least 25 persons at the convention of the Zionist Organization of America at Sheboygan, Sept. 10. The convention will be for the middle Wisconsin and upper Michigan division, and will be attended by approximately 1,000 delegates.

The last convention of the organization was held here last fall. Judge Harry M. Fischer of Chicago, who was one of the principal speakers at that time, will again be on the program at Sheboygan.

Other prominent persons on the program are Assemblyman B. Z. Glass of Milwaukee, Judge Hugo Pam of Chicago, Abe Goldberg and Morris Samuels of Chicago and Dr. Waxman of New York. Mrs. Bertha Read of Chicago, one of the noted women workers in the Jewish colonization of Jerusalem program, also will speak.

The purpose of the Zionist Organization of America is to complete the colonization of Jerusalem as the homeland of the Jew. It conducts drives among its members, the soliciting usually being done at the divisional conventions. During the convention which was held in this city, approximately $3,000 was raised. The funds are sent to Jerusalem for assistance in the upkeep of the pioneers.

Kiss of Appleton is treasurer of the Wisconsin Keren Hayesod, and J. Bachall, and J. Bailen of Appleton are on the state executive committee.

car agency was closed up, the cars had been sold, the operator had flown and the bank deposits with him. The swindler was never apprehended, few of the car owners ever recovered their property and none recovered their money.

In the case of Pittsburgh, the operator had no bank deposit with which to impress his victims but he was able to get cars away from them on notes, which later were not paid and late victims found the operator had left town.

SEE NO IMMEDIATE CUT IN GASOLINE PRICES

Reduction of gasoline prices in New York and South Dakota will have no immediate effect on gasoline prices here, according to local oil companies. Over production in California is given as the reason for the price drop in New York. Shipment is made by water to New York by way of the Panama Canal, and cheap, carrying charges combined with the large supply, accounts for the reduction. The change in New York and New England is made by the Standard Oil Co. of New York.

The Standard, White, Eagle, and Texaco companies in South Dakota reduced their prices from 25 to 22 cents, and the cut also was made by the state highway depot stations. Gasoline is being sold in Appleton by the Standard Oil Co. at 21.6 cents for low test and at 24.6 cents for high test. Low test gas of the Wadham Oil Co. is being sold for 21.6 cents and the high test for 25.1 cents. Low high test DeBauer gas sells for 24.8 cents and the DeBauer Oil Co. brings 21.6 cents a gallon, and high test DeBauer gas sells for 24.6 cents. All these prices are exclusive of the tax of 2 cents a gallon.

Last year and for several years after the war when the Wisconsin farmer took a dollar received in payment for farm products to the store to buy manufactured commodities, he found his dollar would buy only sixty, seventy or eighty cents worth of goods compared to the dollar's worth it would buy in pre-war days.

Prices of Wisconsin farm products have now advanced to a point where today a dollar's worth of butter, eggs and chickens not only brings the farmer a hundred cents worth of needed articles but even one cent more than the dollar he received for these particular products before the war. It is well to bear in mind, say the Institute experts, that it is not the number of dollars the farmer receives for his butter, eggs or poultry but what these dollars will buy in shoes, shingles, suits, salt, seed or silos that count.

VOODOO DOCTOR CAN'T ADVERTISE ANY MORE

The extent to which unsuspecting persons fall victims to advertisements of charms and nostrums is seen in an announcement received at the call-chamber of commerce office from the national business committee of the Associated Advertising clubs telling of the expulsion of the advertisements of one D. Alexander from a Cleveland Negro newspaper.

It is said that D. Alexander reaped a big harvest from persons naturally superstitious and those that resort to the supernatural in the hope of affecting a cure of diseases. The victims are mostly Negroes. The voodoo doctor advertises: "If you want to be lucky, happy and well, tell your secrets to the right man, happy in friendship, business and domestic affairs; spells of all kinds released and broken." Ten cent is required to cover cost of the notice and postage.

Price lists sent to inquirers contain such weird and mysterious items as, "King Solomon's Wisdom Stone, price $1,000." Persons not interested in such a remarkable offering may obtain a "Black Cat's Wishbone," at the same price, of "Black and White Dust," at $500. If the price is too high, there can be obtained a variety of other products ranging from "Eagle Eye Wisdom Stone" at $200, "Hard Luck Powders, Male," at $25 and "Turtle Neck Root," at $2. The last mentioned article appears to be the one most in demand.

USE ENVELOPES OF REGULATION SIZE, P. O. SAYS

Odd Sized and Shaped Containers Retard Mail Dispatchers, Bulletin Claims

Complaint has been made by the Postoffice department at Washington, D. C. that many people are mailing letters and cards in envelopes of such size and shapes as to greatly retard speed in the cancellation of the envelopes and in packing these envelopes into mail bundles. Many of the envelopes received in postoffices all over the country are extremely large or extremely small, so that it is necessary to cancel them by hand. Others are triangular, circular, or some other fantastic shape, so that they cannot be run through the cancellation machine, but must be hand stamped, thereby causing a great loss of time.

Envelopes of unusual size and shape do not fit separating cases, and cannot be tied with ordinary letter packets unless they are bent and folded. This bending and folding takes up much valuable time of dispatching clerks, and often disfigures and mars the contents of the envelopes.

LEAVE WHITE SPACE
In still other cases envelopes, folders, and cards are made of such dark colored paper, or bear on the address side so much printed matter in addition to the address, that dispatching and distributing clerks have to take considerable time in making out the address itself. Space should be left on the address side of all envelopes sufficient for a legible address and for all directions permissible thereon.

Space should be left for postage stamps, postmarking and return address. Not less than three and one half inches of clear space should be left for such purposes at the right end of the address side of all envelopes, folders, cards, or wrappers of mail matter.

The postoffice department prefers that all envelopes be of white paper, but when paper of any other color is issued it should be of very light tints of yellow, pink, or manilla. Postmasters have been asked to take up this matter of proper envelopes with their patrons, and show the desirability of conforming to the provisions of the Postoffice department.

Envelopes should not exceed four inches by nine inches in size and a space of three and a half inches should be left on the right side of the envelope for the address and postage stamp.

DYING

Rody P. Marshall, son of a prominent Pittsburgh attorney, lies in his bed at Narragansett, R. I., dying from a broken neck, while his parents race across the Atlantic to be at the boy's bedside before he dies.

Except in very rare cases the agony of death is a myth, as the senses are mercifully darkened as the pall of death is drawn over the traveler about to pass into the undiscovered country.

Rosa Bonheur was 70 when she painted her famous picture, "Horses Trampling Out Wheat."

Cod Liver Oil in Sugar Coated Tablets For Puny Kids

Forget the nasty tasting, stomach upsetting cod liver oil and give the thin, puny, underdeveloped children McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets if you want to give them a good appetite and put pounds of good, healthy flesh on their bones.

Doctors know all about them and so does Schintz Bros., Downer's Drug Store and all good pharmacists all over America, for they are in great demand, because they are not laggards but show results in a few days.

They are not expensive, either—60 tablets—60 cents and children take them like candy.

A very sickly child, age 9, gained 12 pounds in seven months and is strong and healthy.

Save and Invest in Youth to Be Safe in Old Age

Each year more young men and women join the ranks of preferred shareholders of Milwaukee Electric and its affiliated public utilities. Our home financing of these companies' growth offers young men and women, earning moderate wages and salaries, opportunity to get a full business rate of income from their savings, paid four times a year.

These young men and women realize that $100 or $1,000 saved and safely invested in their twenties, and allowed to go on piling up its reinvested earnings year after year, will give them a much larger fund to retire on than several times as much saved in their forties or fifties, with fewer years to grow in. They are denying themselves extravagances now, in order to be sure of comfort and security when the time comes for them to quit work.

The electric service industry is rated one of the safest investments—partly because it is a permanent industry, a public necessity and a State-regulated natural monopoly; partly because it is a young and steadily growing industry, with many years of great natural growth ahead of it.

Wisconsin Electric Power Co.
6 1/2% cumulative preferred shares, which we are now selling to finance growth at the great Lakeside power plant that serves a million Wisconsin people, are rated one of the safest investments in the electric service industry. They offer savings investors the safety of a good bond, with the higher income of a preferred share.

You can buy one or more shares paying all cash, at $100 each. Or you can buy them at the same price, paying $5 down and $5 monthly on each share. If you can save $25 a month, you can buy and pay for five shares with nineteen $5 payments—the interest allowed on your payments at the dividend rate. Of 6 1/2%, takes care of the twentieth payment. With $50 a month you can buy ten shares, and in a year and a half have your first $1,000 saved.

A good many young folks who first began saving regularly to pay for shares of one of our earlier issues have formed the habit and continue buying on monthly payments as many shares of each of our new issues as they can carry out of their income. Some of them have reached the point where their dividends from shares bought in this way are large enough to pay for new shares at each quarterly dividend date. These young folks are on the safe and sure road to independence.

THERMOSTAT IS RESULT OF LAD'S
FURNACE ALARM

Young "Al" Spencer Got Idea
Watching Father's Sawmill
in Woods

Cambridge, Mass.—"If you are alone in the big woods with nothing to play with but a steam engine, it is pretty certain you'll learn something about that engine," says John A. Spencer, Spencer either is a millionaire or is going to be one soon as a result of an idea which he learned from a steam engine in Maine as a boy of 15. His idea is a new thing in thermostats, which as everyone may know are automatic devices to turn heat on and off.

WAS NIGHT WATCHMAN

"Al" Spencer, as he was called then and is yet, was a night watchman and fireman at a sawmill operated by his grandfather. He noticed that when the furnace was fired up and got hot enough one of the sheet-iron walls would snap with a bang into a slightly convex position. It became his signal to close the draft. After a time he rigged up a small log to lean against the furnace wall. This log was displaced when the heat bulged the sheet-iron outward, and it would fall against a tin bucket, creating the clatter of an alarm clock.

FRATERNITY BUYS LOT FOR CHAPTER HOUSE

Delta Iota fraternity of Lawrence college, purchased a lot at the east end of E. South-st overlooking the river, and expects to build a large chapter house in about three years, according to H. G. Thomas, of the Delta Iota alumni association. The lot was purchased from Allen H. Thuermer.

The lot extends down the river bank to the canal west of the Thillmany Pulp and Paper Co. tissue mill on E. John-st. It is planned to build a four story fraternity house with a very large porch overlooking the river. There will also be room for a tennis court on the property. The present Delta Iota house is located at 203 N. Union-st.

state works just the same way. Its distinctive part is a metal disc which snaps back and forth like the bottom of an oil can. This disc is composed of two plates of different metals which expand and contract at different rates as the temperature changes. It will maintain a slight bulge in one direction until it gets just so cold or so hot. Then it will snap back to the concave position. It is the sawmill furnace all over again. Spencer's thermostat can be applied to any kind of machinery from a flatiron to a factory engine. On an electric iron it will shut off the current when the clothes might be burned, and turn it on again after the iron has cooled. The flatiron thermostat is about the size of a silver dollar, whereas some devices for the purpose are almost as large as the iron itself.

For Fords

No recent invention or discovery for Fords has added so much to the pleasure of motoring as Polarine "F" for Fords.

It effectively stops transmission noise and thoroughly lubricates the engine, which causes it to operate quietly and efficiently. You glide along the road with your motor purring contentedly and eagerly.

Polarine "F" for Fords is an economy oil. It performs both functions with great facility—something you can't get with a single purpose oil. It affords Ford drivers great satisfaction.

Drain your crankcase every few hundred miles, thoroughly cleanse the motor with Polarine Flushing Oil, and refill with Polarine "F".

Sports Coat Of Red-Plaid Is Popular

Vivid colors flashing over the golf course or outlined against the sand hills of the seaside resort — they seem to typify the joyous spirit of vacation time. And the gayer the color the smarter, seems to be the rule. The sports coat pictured here is a particularly smart model and is fashioned of imported flannel in red and white plaid with solid red used for cuffs and border. It is worn by Mae Busch, screen player. It is straight line and wraparound and would be particularly suitable for the young girl at the seashore.

Another version of the sports coat popular at the resorts is a less than three-quarter length knitted one of rayon and wool with white collar and cuffs. This was worn over a white crepe jumper frock. A new belt to be worn with a sports frock of crepe de chine is made of lizard skin, the skin cut in one length and doubled, tapering to a fine point at one end, which slips through a silver buckle in the form of a lizard with two emerald eyes. Other new belts are in fancy kid in white and two shades of blue. The body of the belt is light blue with the white stitched on. The buckle is a darker shade of the blue. Then there are tan belts with plain tabs and a metal buckle. The back is decorated with a darker shade of the leather.

IMAGINE MEN WITH DRESSES AND VICA VERSA

Imagine a situation. Imagine men addicted to frocks and women addicted to trousers, and imagine this state of affairs to have existed for a thousand years.

It would today be accepted as the only right and proper state of affairs. Daring women who elected to wear frocks and daring men who elected to wear trousers would be frowned upon and denounced. The accustomed would seem sanctified as it always has seemed and always will seem.

But for all their soft conformity the people in their secret hearts would realize that the styles were not, in fact, ordained of heaven; and then service to the existing order would be a lip service only, says the Baltimore Sun.

Imagine now, the coming of a critic — a devil-may-care fellow with a streak of humor in his cosmos.

He says to the people: "The existing division of labor requires that men be more active than women. They should, therefore, wear the garments that are better suited to activity. Our present arrangement is silly. This darned frock of mine was wished on me by precedent and I'm weary of tripping in it."

You know the rest of the story. The people stand aghast for a time, and then the grin and say: "Why the cuss is clever. A knocker, to be sure, and not very respectful, but clever—darned clever!" The people always say that.

Now, just what does this much-praised cleverness consist in? Simply in telling the truth—nothing more. And does it consist in revealing truths that are hidden from the people? Not at all. In that case the critic would be called mad. It consists in saying right out in public the things that the people know in their secret hearts. That is all. Call the roll of the clever ones—Shaw, Mencken, Howe and the rest—and examine their bag of tricks. Do they bring down new revelations from Sinai? Not a revelation. Do they pierce the veil of obscurity and reveal to the world new and unsuspected vistas of wisdom? They do not.

They simply tell the truth—the plain, common-sense truth that people bound by precedent and timidity recognize as truth because they long have been aware of its existence in themselves.

It is a sad commentary on mankind's slavery to his own inherent love of pretense that "cleverness" should so largely consist in simple truth telling.

FLARING LINES WILL TRIUMPH FOR FALL

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer.

New York—August may be a dull month for the buyer of clothes, but not for the designer and the dealer. During this month the buyers for the foremost American houses are busy in Paris, and the French couturiers are working overtime getting the models ready for the American house. Every boat is bringing in new and colorful models, with no startling innovations, but with a general perfection and finish that charms.

"It appears that the supremacy of the straightline frock has gradually been broken, and that the flaring lines have gained the day," said Henri Bendel, New York importer and designer, as we looked over some of the newest Paris versions of the mode, "but this does not mean that the straight line is not still featured."

"The full skirt is excellent for the slender figure and the fluttering ends, floating panels, and all the suggestions of motion and vibration that are the last word, are very effective. But the larger figure needs different treatment. So fall models must be chosen with discrimination."

"How about the silhouette?" I asked him. "What is the present status of the waistline?"

"Still a variable," he replied. "Undoubtedly there is a desire on the part of many designers to raise it, and the full skirt is a powerful upward influence, but the fact remains that the low waistline is much more becoming to the average figure than the normal one."

"The girl with a small, naturally slim waistline is never more lovely than in the type of frock which emphasizes this line of beauty, but it is sartorial suicide for the mature figure to call attention to one that has increased past the point of symmetry."

"Perhaps the corset will come back," I suggested. "That has been a matter of speculation for some time."

"The woman of today may wear a girdle or corset," Bendel replied, "but only in order to get an uncorseted look, not to get what we used to call a figure." The woman of today leads an active life, and will not return to the old style of corset which hampered her.

"Her clothes, too must be designed not only from a point of view of beauty and richness of fabric and trimming, but in order to give the necessary room for action. They must not only be right when she is standing erect, but when she is dancing and engaging in sports. They must conform to the natural lines of her body."

"I venture to say it will be some time before the silhouette changes much because it is the natural, normal one, and suited to our time and our mode of living."

"This year's styles illustrate more clearly than ever before that every woman is a law unto herself, and that to achieve chic she must know her type and play it up to the best advantage. It is possible today to wear very long or very short skirts, and still be up to the minute. The waistline can be practically anywhere where it wants to be. All colors are permissible with the pink and red shades particularly good, and all the blues to the fore."

"There are trimmed and untrimmed frocks, and large and small hats, though the small ones are by far the smartest."

"In other words," he concluded, "you have everything in the world to select from, and nothing to restrict you but your individual taste and your dress allowance."

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRES-COTT TO JOHN ALDEN PRES-COTT, CONTINUED

Probably as you read this, John you are wondering why I, your wife, at a crucial moment in our lives like this, should go into this long dissertation on the modern marriage. It is because I want to let you in upon the ways and means by which I am trying to reason this thing out. It is because after this I want to make certain that there shall be no misunderstandings. It is because I am trying like you to be honest with both you and myself.

In my case, however, there is no question of the "meal ticket." I know I would never have to worry about money for myself or my children if I should put you out of my life, but as usual in affairs of this kind there are always other people to be taken into consideration.

I know, as you intimated, that your leaving the management of the steel mill at this time would make my mother very unhappy. She would feel it her duty to come home if she were told about this sorry mix-up, and besides, I shall have to confess, John, I myself am most sensitive to the speech of people. I would not care to go out among my friends if I knew that after I left the room they were wondering just what I was going to do.

I can not bear, John, to let the world know that my matrimonial ship has gone on the rocks. We have, it is true, steered away from many of them—some of them—some of them which I thought would surely be our destruction, but now it seems to be almost a case of either Scylla or Charybdis. I wonder if the matrimonial bark of all other married people sails in such troubled waters.

Perhaps it is because we are both filled with vain pride for, after all, Jack, it is the hurt of one's pride rather than the wrecking of one's love or the breaking of one's heart that plays havoc with marriage.

I told this to Ruth and she smiled. "You haven't reached the depths yet, Leslie," she said. "It is only after one has thoroughly realized that one must bury all pride, that one knows that love is dead."

Ruth thinks that we can, outwardly at least, come to some kind of compromise. She insists that marriage itself, with or without love, with or without trust, is nothing but a series of compromises. She quoted to me that old stanza of Cowper.

The kindest and the happiest pair Will find occasion to forbear. And something every day they live To pity and perhaps forgive. She seems to think that I should pin that verse above my mirror, where I could read it every day. Just at this moment John, however, I can not bring myself to share with all the poor little women who may remind you of bedraggled kittens my unquestionable rights of a wife.

I do think, perhaps that if you care to live with me, purely on a conventionally friendly basis—if you have the courage to keep from the

NEW-FANGLED METHODS KEEP BABY HEALTHY

BY MIRIAM A. FERGUSON
Governor of Texas

I am an old-fashioned grandmother except when it comes to child health. I believe in all the new-fangled methods of rearing boys and girls, so far as they relate to physical well-being.

I believe in the child's Bill of Rights—that every child should have a fair chance to grow up healthy and happy. I believe that every home should be a health center. I wish it were possible for me as grandmother-governor of Texas to map out and enforce certain home laws. I would have a daily morning inspection of every child for evidence of acute disorders and for chronic conditions.

I would arrange for all children to go to the dentist every six months, for babies to have medical examination at birth, two weeks, one month, three months, and every three months thereafter until two years of age, then yearly, or even oftener if unfavorable symptoms arise.

There should be a check-up on condition of the mother's health, with provision for medical consultation annually, and a similar check-up on the father's health.

I would have a check-up on the sanitary condition of the home, noting sanitation and possibilities for sunlight.

I would check-up on the children's diet to see that each one is getting the kind of food he needs for his particular age, and that he is learning to eat what he should and is developing regular habits of rest, sleep and elimination.

It is for me to go fishing, and get all the fish I can, and get all the fish I can.

"So he got into the habit of watching until Mrs. Fish-Hawk caught a big fish and then when she was half way home, chase her and steal it right out of her claws. It was the meanest thing you ever saw. Besides, Mrs. Fish-Hawk's children came nigh to starving to death."

"I could stand it no longer," said Mrs. Blackbird. "So at last I went and told my friends. Hundreds of them."

"They were as indignant as I was. So we had a meeting and decided to do something."

"What did you do?" asked Nancy. "We watched, and the very next time old Baldy Eagle chased Mrs. Fish-Hawk to steal her fish, we rose up like a black cloud and got after him. We picked him and flapped our wings in his eyes and screamed at him until he was glad to sneak off home. And Mrs. Fish-Hawk got to her nest safely."

"Did he stop?" asked Nick. "Yes, sir," said Mrs. Blackbird proudly. "He did. Every time he got after her we did the same thing. That is what muzzed me up so. But at last he let her alone for good and all."

"You were very brave birds," said Doctor Bill. (To Be Continued.) (Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)

MISS KEATING WRITES 'FAME' AT EIGHTEEN

BY GENE COHN
NEA Service Writer.

New York—When Michelle Keating was seven years old the family doctor shook his head dubiously and, gesturing despairingly to her mother, said:

"If you don't pry that child's nose out of her infernal books she'll be delicate all her life and never amount to anything."

But Michelle has fooled them. She has never been pried completely from her books. She isn't exactly what you would call delicate. And she amounts to something—a quite a bit, in fact!

At 15 she is the author of "Fame," a novel fast leaping toward the best seller class. And in writing this book she has brought down upon her flaxen head sharp raps from censorious minded critics who demand to know how a child of her years dare write of such ultra-Elitior-Glynish incidents.

For this boyish figured young miss, but two years removed from a French convent, has created a little world of amours, exotic temperaments and disciples of decadent philosophy; with some virtues thrown in for the heroine. A large number of critics appear to have been "shocked."

"But the day is past when the question of age enters into the expression of mind and viewpoint," insists this mature minded maid, whose ash blond hair is modestly cut, whose pale blue eyes are of the placid dream-weaving type, who indicates an unobtrusiveness and timidity and yet is completely self-assured.

"This is not a generation of pretensions. I am not at all sure that girls of 18 of all times were unaware of what went on in the society into which they were cast. Why then, should not any one of us write of what we see and know at 16 or 17 or 18? If we don't put down our impressions then, another year will be too late. I wrote my first book out of the eyes of 17. I wrote most of it in a dressing room of a theatre where I was a protegee of Belasco."

I was fresh from a convent and, since my mother for years had been connected with the theatrical business, I tried the stage. There I gained my impressions that made up my book. "Fame"—of course I can't say that. I am delighted to speak for the so-called younger generation, but I'm one of them and as such I believe we are taking for granted our right to self-expression.

"Oh, it isn't in writing, alone. It's in everything. There's Helen Willis, who was a mere child when she ran up her tennis record; and there is Miss Cowells and Miss Ederle in the swimming world, and ever so many young musicians and painters and artists in general."

"CUKES" MAKE RELISHES FOR NEXT WINTER

Wisconsin housewives are now availing themselves of the cucumber crop and are changing these vegetables in appetizing relishes for next winter's use.

Since the delicate flavor of small sweet pickles is enjoyed by almost every member of the family, the housewife may well provide a number of jars of them for use on picnics and for the winter months.

"Successful pickle making depends on a few general principles," say the home economic experts at the University of Wisconsin who have studied the reasons why pickles are too soft or too tough. The best method advocated is as follows:

Select the small cucumbers, about 100 of them, and cover with cold water for an hour. Place them in a crock and add a brine solution in the proportions of 1 cup of coarse salt to a gallon water. Allow the cucumbers to soak for 48 hours and be sure that they are tightly covered with a plate during the last 24 hours. While in the brine, the salt draws out the water in the pickles and leaves them shriveled and tough. If canned in this manner, they would continue to be tough, but they are not ready to be put in jars at this stage.

Soak the pickles in vinegar for an hour in order that the water may go back into them again and they may be made tender and turgid. (If the sugar is added at this time they are apt to remain shriveled.) After soaking in vinegar, pack in sterilized jars, and pour boiling spiced and sweetened vinegar over them, and seal.

The amount of sugar may be varied according to taste, although one cup of sugar is considered a satisfactory amount for 100 two-inch cucumbers. The spices may be freshly ground in the coffee grinder and tied in muslin bags if the housewife prefers to have the vinegar remain clear in the jars. For this quantity of cucumbers, it is well to use one stick of cinnamon, one teaspoon of whole cloves, one teaspoon of whole allspice, and a bay leaf. If the vinegar is too strong it is well to dilute it, since too strong vinegar tends to soften the pickles too much.

Health Hints

DO YOU EAT ENOUGH FRUIT? Fats, starches, sweets and plenty of fruits should be eaten if one is to carry proper weight and keep a good digestion.

Foods should be eaten which are nutritious rather than bulky and should be eaten at regular times. Acid fruits and acid foods should be avoided. Read, potatoes and oatmeal are excellent foods, while meats are unnecessary as a factor in producing weight.

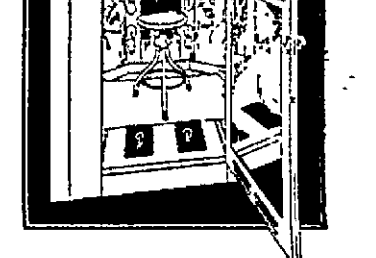

First rank on the menu should be held by vegetable soups, for they are appetizing and wholesome. Plenty of water in the morning and plenty of water throughout the day should be taken. If the water is cold, drink slowly so as not to chill the stomach.

Plenty of relaxation and plenty of exercise are needed if one is to gain the proper weight without jacking on excess fat. Exercise is equally important as the diet. But of should be regulated so as not to permit undue physical exertion or exhaustion, which would lead to loss of vitality.

Walking, riding, climbing or swimming are good open-air exercises which not only aid digestion but tend toward body building in general.

The FLAPPER WIFE

By BEATRICE BURTON © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

For the next week Gloria racked her brain, wondering how she was going to get hold of at least $200 for Stanley Wayburn.

She looked at her engagement ring, her wrist watch, and the little platinum bracelet Dick had given her for Christmas. She wondered how much they would bring if she pawned them.

And besides, she hated the thought of giving up her jewelry.

There must be some other way she could get the money.

She was wondering about it one afternoon, as she sat beside Dick.

"A penny for your thoughts, Gloria," he said suddenly. He sat up in bed, and the book that he had been reading tumbled to the floor.

Gloria bent to pick it up. She laid it on the counterpane.

Instantly Dick's arms were around her.

Gloria wrenched herself out of them, and stood up.

"Don't do that," she cried sharply. "Let me alone!"

The look of tenderness that had been in Dick's eyes, was blotted out. Gloria knew that she had cut him to the heart when she had snatched herself away from him. But she didn't care.

"Can't I kiss you any more, Gloria?" Dick asked. "After all, you're my wife, you know."

"Yes, but I belong to myself first," Gloria answered. "And I don't want to be kissed right this minute, as it happens."

The minute she had said it she was sorry.

How could she have been so brutal to Dick when he was still so weak and sick? It was not his fault that she had married him, without being sure of herself. His only crime had been that he loved her too well.

"Don't mind what I say, today. I'm in a fiendish mood, I guess," she said.

She was. She was in a frenzy of worry . . . wondering how to get the money for Stanley Wayburn.

"I'm sorry I was cross, Dick," she said softly.

But the gentleness in her voice only fanned the slow anger in Dick to sudden flame.

"There's something behind all this coldness of yours. I'm not blind," he stared up. "You can't make a fool of me! . . . How about this guy, Wayburn? You still see him, don't you?"

Gloria gasped. At times like this, life with Dick was not lacking in adventure!

And Gloria, like all women, thrilled to adventure. She knew how to meet it. It was the breath of life to her!

Moreover, Dick as the Male Proper, in a jealous mood, was much easier to deal with than Dick the Model Husband. Gloria understood him. . . . She had learned all about jealousy from Stanley Wayburn!

She went over to Dick and laid her small hand against his mouth.

"Hush," she said. "You mustn't get excited like this. You'll make yourself sick! . . . And you know that what you're saying is crazy nonsense, anyway!"

Dick's senses ached with the longing to take her in his arms. The warm nearness of her made his head go round. But he clenched his hands at his sides, until the nails bit into his palms.

"I'm tired," he said. "I think I'll go to sleep for a while. Perhaps you'd better go."

And to his relief, Gloria went. Dick heard the door of her room close, and the bolt slide into place. That night Gloria sat for a long time before her mirror.

"How long am I going on like this?" She asked her own face, as it glimmered at her from the silver depths of the looking-glass.

She couldn't go on being Dick's wife! Not while she felt as she did about Stanley Wayburn, at any rate. That much was certain.

She found herself facing a problem that women have faced since the world began.

She was chained to one man. And she was sure she loved another!

What was she going to do about it? Wasn't there some way out of it? There must be!

She knew Dick would never let her go without a struggle.

Of course, she could always go back to work.

But she shuddered at the thought of getting up at seven every morning, of gulping down a cup of coffee, and dashing downtown to hamper her fingers off on a typewriter all day.

Ugh, she had had enough of that! It was worse than housework.

That wasn't what she wanted to do. Not by a long chalk!

There was a verse pasted on her mirror. Gloria raised her eyes to read it, although she knew it by heart:

"Life is but once,
Drink the cup,
Wear the roses,
Live the verses."

That was Gloria's creed. She believed in getting all the happiness there was . . . to the last drop!

She simply was not going to be harnessed to hard work and dullness if there was any way out!

She wanted laughter, dancing, music—the jazz of life. In her mind, Stanley Wayburn stood for those things.

When she thought of Dick she thought of meals to be cooked, socks to be darned, bills to be paid, long dull evenings by the living-room fire. He stood for Marriage.

And Gloria was sick and tired of married life.

"If I'd only known what it was like, I'll bet a hat I'd still be single!" she said to her face in the glass. It looked back at her with brilliant, unhappy eyes.

Gloria was struck again with the fact of her own good looks.

Why, she didn't need any man! Not Dick, of Stan Wayburn, either!

Her face was her fortune!

Why should she be a household drudge, or an office hack, either? With a face like hers?

She could carve out a future for herself . . . just as Kit Cameron had! On Broadway. That street of stars!

Gloria snapped out her light and went to bed.

Against the darkness of her room she seemed to see her name in electric lights above the doors of a theater . . . "Gloria Gordon Gregory."

Yes, if worse came to worst, she could go on the stage to earn her own living! . . . Kit was in New York. She could show her the ropes!

Gloria smiled as she closed her eyes and dropped off to sleep.

The next morning Dick was not so well.

"Something seems to have upset him. He'd better stay in bed all day and rest," Mrs. O'Hara said to Gloria at breakfast. "This is the day I have my afternoon off duty, too. So perhaps you'd better sit with him this afternoon, Mrs. Gregory."

Gloria had come downstairs hatted to go out. She drained her coffee cup and stood up.

"Alright, I'll be home early," she answered. "I'm just going to run over to Mrs. Seymour's for a little while."

She found May having breakfast at one end of the dining room table. The morning paper was propped against the coffee pot. And a half-smoked cigar was burning itself away at the edge of her plate.

"Have a cup of coffee?" May asked.

"No, thanks. I've just had breakfast," Gloria replied.

She came to the point at once. "May, you don't happen to have any money knocking around that you want to lend to a friend in need, do you?" she asked bluntly.

May shook her head in a puzzled sort of way.

"Heavens, no. I haven't one sou to lend anybody," she said. "I've just been wondering when they're going to throw me into jail for debt."

"What do you need money for?" Gloria flushed. She bit off a hang-nail, nervously, before she answered.

She wondered if May divined that she wanted the money for Stanley Wayburn. "That does anybody need money for?" she asked, shrugging her shoulders.

May sat looking at her with narrowed eyes.

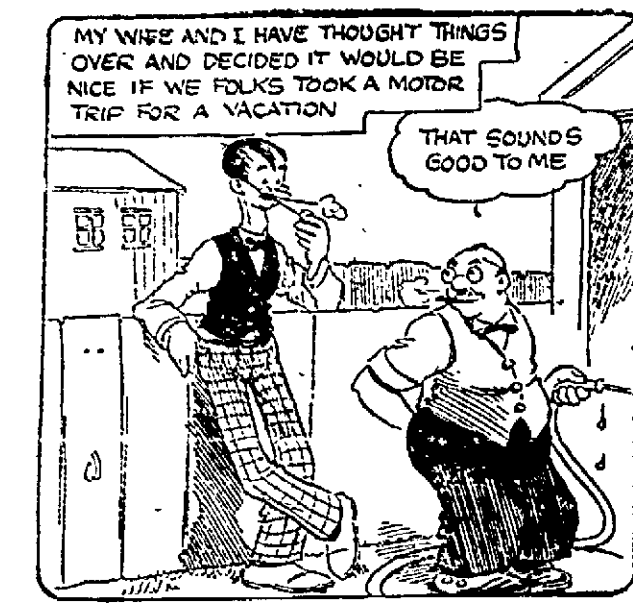

Give me the low-down on this," she said at last. "If you just want this money for clothes you'd ask Dick for it. I know. What mischief have you been up to?"

She broke off suddenly. Gloria's face was red with anger.

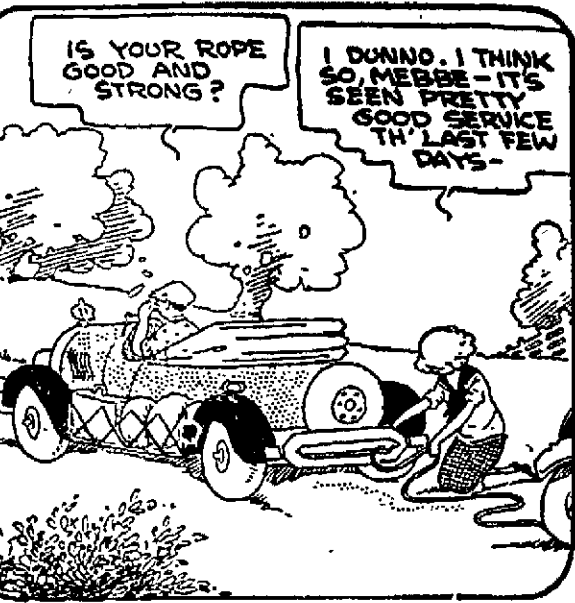

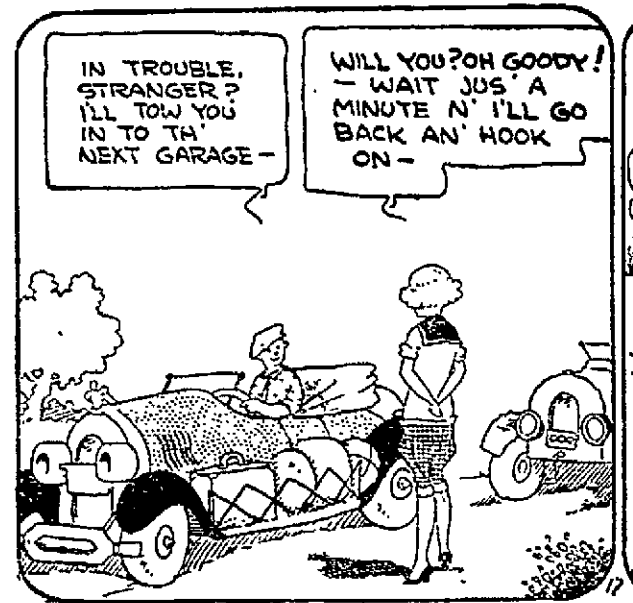

"Well, you're a fine friend!" she cried. "I lower my pride to ask you for a loan. And all you can do is to pry into my affairs, instead of lending me a little. You make me sick, May!"

BIRTH RATE ON
THAN IN CITIES

More Children Born in Villages Than in Larger Communities

New York—The birth rate in the farming areas of the United States is 52 per cent greater than in the cities and 24 per cent greater than in the villages, according to a report published by the Institute of Social and Religious Research, of this city, which gives under the title, "A Census Analysis of American Villages," the results of the first tabulation ever made of the United States census data for villages. By villages is meant communities having from 250 to 2,500 inhabitants.

The figures in the report show that at the last census period the average number of children to each 100 married women between 15 and 45 years of age in villages was 157, as compared with 128 in the cities, while in the distinctly farming areas the average number was 135.

The population in the villages is shown by the report to be very different in its composition and characteristics from the population in the strictly farming areas. The analysis shows, for example, that in the country's farm population there are 109 men to every 100 women, while in the villages there are only 95 men to each 100 women.

Basing his criticism on these and other differences, Dr. C. Luther Fry, the author of the report, questions the validity of the census procedure, which makes no distinction between the data of the rural population.

The report states that the census data for 1.75 per cent of the 10,225 villages in the United States having populations between 250 and 2,500 were tabulated and analyzed in the study; and that this sample was carefully selected to include representative villages in the middle Atlantic region, the middle west, the south, and the far west.

According to the report, the villages have a disproportionately large number of old people as compared with the cities and the farming areas. Of the men in the villages, 28.5 per cent are 45 years of age or older, while for the United States as a whole, 21.5 per cent of the men are in that age group. Of the women in the villages, 27.4 per cent are 45 or have passed that age, while this is true of only 20 per cent of the women of the entire country.

The different regions themselves also show great differences in the composition of the population. In the middle Atlantic region, for example, 34.8 per cent of the village men and 36.7 per cent of the village women have reached or passed the forty-fifth year. In the villages of the middle west, 31.1 per cent of the men and 29.4 per cent of the women are 45 or older; in those of the far west, 27.3 per cent of the men and 23.8 per cent of the women; in those of the south, 21 per cent of the men and 19.4 per cent of the women.

The figures show that for every 100 women the middle Atlantic villages have only 88 men; the villages of the middle west, 95 men; those of the far west, 105 men; those of the south, 94 men.

In the marital status of villagers, regional differences are marked. In the far west, which is the one area in which the men in villages outnumber the women, only 22.6 per cent of the village men are single. This compares with 26.7 per cent of the middle Atlantic region, 28.1 per cent in the middle west, and 28.5 per cent in the south.

HOLLOW MOUNDS ROUSE
SCIENTISTS' INTEREST

Anderson, S. C.—Archaeologists from several colleges in this state are to join an expedition being organized here for the purpose of exploring the great mounds on the Tugaloo and Seneca rivers, near here, which are said to have been built by a race that antedated the red men.

Some of the mounds, especially those along the Tugaloo, are said to be that they cover approximately three acres and are about 100 feet high.

Following an examination of several of the mounds Andrew Todd, of this city, expressed the opinion that their interiors are hollow and contain relics of an ancient race that only await the explorer's pick to bring them to light.

A large mound near Calhoun Falls, was demolished during the floods of 1908, revealing a number of pieces of pottery and other evidences of a past civilization.
